ONE YEAR, SERVICE MEMBERS $4
CIVILIANS AND ORGANIZATIONS $6Tilson Sees Defense
In Protective TariffBy REP. JOHN Q. TILSON, Majority Leader, House of Representatives.

ONE of the strongest arguments in favor of the protective tariff policy is its relationship to the subject of national defense.

When the first protective tariff law was passed in 1789, the importance was stressed of promoting our manufacturing as an aid to national defense and this consideration undoubtedly contributed substantially to the adoption of the protective policy. James Madison, who at that time leaned toward "free trade," spoke in debate of the contention being made by "well informed men" that "each nation should have within itself the means of defence, independent of foreign supplies; that in whatever relates to the operations of war, no state ought to depend upon a precarious supply from any part of the world." He then mentioned "the difficulties we experienced a few years ago of obtaining military supplies."

While Madison discounted all arguments in favor of a protective policy, he admitted that legislation to foster those industries producing military supplies might be a proper exception to the free trade policy which he proposed.

Cites History.

The difficulties which the Colonies faced during the Revolution in obtaining military supplies were duplicated by the South in the Civil War. When the Revolution started the Colonies had few manufacturing establishments and necessarily looked abroad for their military supplies. The greatest handicap of the South in the Civil War was the lack of manufacturing facilities and the consequent need for importing supplies.

On the other hand, the greatest aid—

Lieutenant-Commanders for Commanders, Joseph Mason Deem, Percy Wilfred Northcroft, David Hunt Stuart, John Martin Ashley, Lucius Claude Dunn, Robert Pollock Guiler, Jr., Ewart Gladstone Haas, Howard Kirk Lewis, Warren Lester Moore, Alfred Thomas Clay, Franklin Speakman Steinwachs, Earle Calvin Metz, James Bothwell Will, Herbert Whitwell Underwood, Frederick Carl Sherman, Percy Kent Robottom, Walleigh Capehart, Lyl Ament Davidson, Hugh McCulloh Branham, Edwin James Gillam, Frank Henry Luckel, Melville Stuart Brown, Donald Bradford Beary, Charles Johnes Moore, Thomas Moran, Frank Harrison Kelley, Jr., James Alexander Logan.

Prescribe for R. O. Exams

A BULLETIN has been sent out by the War Department to Corps Area commanders, chiefs of branches, and commandants of the General and Special Service Schools, concerning the examination of Reserve Officers without commissioned World War service for the grades of lieutenant colonel and colonel.

In form all examinations will thoroughly test the candidate's military knowledge and practical military ability, and his general qualifications—general education, personality, appearance, bearing, experience and general adaptability to the military service, and his physical condition.

"Face Peace as You Would War" Good Says
in Address to 297 West Point Graduates

West Point (Special).—The duty of the Army officer "to face peace as you would war—giving all that is in you, without stint of measure, to the service of this blessed land that contains the hopes of mankind" was the keynote of the address of the Secretary of War, James W. Good, to the graduates of the United States Military Academy here June 13.

"I am reminded," the secretary said, "of the military roads that governments expend millions of dollars to construct. Such vast expenditure would not be justified if these great roads were only available for use in time of war. They must serve also as highways of commerce, as agencies of national development, and they must take a daily part in the shaping of the country's destiny."

"There was a period in our history when the life of the Regular Army officer was spent within the narrow compass of army associations and his activities confined to the performance of military duties. That period passed twenty years ago. Our times make many varied demands upon the officer of the regular establishment. Never before has this nation been in greater need of men so tempered by education and training that they are quickly

Ordnance, Air, Motor,
Held Shaping Infantry

Fort Benning (Special).—Scientific developments in transportation and production were seen as the probable key for restoring mobility on the battlefield and in the theater of war, in an address delivered by Brig. Gen. Campbell King, commandant of the Infantry School, at graduation exercises for 235 officers held here June 11.

"The mechanized army," General King said, "May still be a dim dream of the future, but each year it is becoming a more alarming dream to such of us as see the summation of all military development still centered on the methods of the World War."

"One thing seems inevitable," the commandant said later in his address, "the developments in ordnance, air material and motor vehicles will not leave the Infantry untouched. Where ever possible these developments must be made our own, if we are to retain in the future the dominant role which Infantry has played in the past."

General King's address, in part, follows:

"Young in years though this institution may be, it is already acquiring traditions which many far older institutions might envy. There is today in our army scarcely an officer who does not recognize the important role the Infantry School is performing in training our officers and perfecting our national military policy. Its mere size alone, and the volume of graduates passing out each year to the various components of the army should give it a pre-eminent role among its sister service institutions. But numbers have never been the motto of Benning; we have sought in every way possible to make the quality of the instruction here pre-eminent. Such an ideal is difficult to achieve. We do believe, however, that each year has seen an improvement in the quality of our instruction, an increasing readiness by the School to adopt new ideas, and a growing enthusiasm on the part of the thousands of officers through this institution to accept the ideas here formulated and to pass them on to the army as a whole."

"It would be less than fitting at this time not to comment on the really exceptional enthusiasm and earnestness which you gentlemen have displayed toward the instruction this year. The adaptable to changing conditions, whose minds are trained to adopt and adapt new ideas and equipped to find correct and prompt solutions for new and unforeseen problems.

"Our country's rank among the nations, her tremendous wealth, strategic position and commercial expansion have increased her international contacts and so have enormously multiplied the opportunities for misunderstandings and conflicts in foreign policies. The Government has a right to feel that the Army officer makes a tactful and capable agent and is coming to use him more and more as its representative at home and abroad. He is entrusted with missions that touch every phase of national life and is sent to all parts of the world to further the interests of the Government. He most likely goes alone, without troops, and accomplishes his purpose, not through the sword, but by the judicious use of intellect and a broad understanding of human affairs. He may be a Leonard Wood in the Philippines, a Pershing in South America, or a McCoy in Nicaragua."

"In the performance of his varied tasks it is imperative that he establish bonds of common purpose with his

Must Find Agreement
On Pay Warns James

By M. H. McINTYRE

WHEN the Joint Army and Navy Pay Board convenes on June 17 for what it was hoped would be its final session, it will be confronted by a development that may necessitate a complete revision of its plans.

In a statement to the Army and Navy Journal on June 13, Chairman James of the House Military Affairs Committee announced that unless the board reached an agreement and submitted a specific joint pay schedule for the two major branches of the Service he would withdraw his motion for a joint congressional committee to investigate the Service pay situation and thus remove any possibility of remedial legislation at this time.

As forecast in the last issue of this publication the board had instructed the drafting committee to prepare a report eliminating any schedule of pay and any draft of proposed legislation, confining its recommendations to a comprehensive presentation of the necessity for pay revision. In view of the James pronouncement it appears doubtful that the board will go through with its present plans.

Several courses appear to be open to the board.

First; It can go ahead with the existing report confining its findings to making a case for the need for pay legislation.

Second; It can recommend the departure from the joint pay principle and submit separate schedules for the different branches.

Third; It can draft a joint pay schedule with a different pay scale for the paralleling grades in the Army and Navy with the total pay for the entire career approximately the same.

Fourth; It can renew its efforts to reach a compromise agreement under which a satisfactory schedule could be drafted.

In view of the diametrically opposite viewpoints in the Army and Navy, the latter seems a virtual impossibility. The basic differences between the Navy's demand for pay predicated on rank and responsibility and the Army's insistence on length of service as the important factor makes a compromise difficult if not impossible.

At best the board finds itself in a serious dilemma. If it cannot reach an agreement, it is pointed out, how can Congress be expected to. By eliminating a schedule it merely evades the real issue and in the face of Congressman James' attitude appears to close the door against any immediate relief.

So far as the second course is concerned it appears unlikely that the board will "take the bull by the horns" and make a flat recommendation that Congress abandon the joint pay principle and return to separate schedules.

With respect to the third suggestion

Personnel Bills May Pass

PROSPECTS for passage at the Special Session of the Naval Line Personnel Bill and the Marine Corps Personnel Bill were revived by developments of the last 24 hours.

In the absence from the Senate of Chairman Hale, due to illness, Senator Swanson, ranking minority member of the Senate Naval Committee, announced, after a conference with the Chairman, his intention of bringing both bills up for consideration at the earliest possible moment. As this edition went to press the indications were that an attempt would be made June 14 to get the Senate to vote on these measures.

It is improbable that the Committee will make any further effort to get action at present on the Shore Establishment measure, which will probably go over to the Regular Session.

Press Optimistic for Future of Reparations Situation

SATISFACTION has been expressed by many of the leading newspapers that

Young's reparations report has finally been signed, which opens, some say, a new chapter in the history of Europe. Optimism is expressed for a more harmonious state of relations between the creditor and debtor nations. Some editors, however, say that the plan may contain clauses which would have the effect of shifting ultimately, the burden of reparations payments from Germany's shoulders to those of the United States. Mr. Owen Young has been praised highly for his work in bringing the work of the reparations conference to an end satisfactorily to the nations concerned. Disagreement of opinion is found, however, on the point of an international bank of reparations. Several see it as the key which will unlock many problems, while others say that such a bank could not perform duties which could not be as well performed by existing institutions.

THE Baltimore Sun (Independent Democratic) writes: "The reduction of annuities, the concession of a moratorium in difficult circumstances, the abolition of the 'index of prosperity,' the lifting of foreign control from German railways—all these are evidences of a disposition to give up regarding reparations exclusively as a punitive enterprise and to treat them as necessary means of adjusting the war burdens equably among the various participants. * * * Even though vexations will remain, among them the debts of the late Allies among themselves, it is a magnificent advance which fixes an ascertainable total for Germany's obligation, a total not subject to increase should German prosperity exceed expectations; which leaves the manner of payment entirely in the hands of experts and non-political bankers; gives Germany ample security against disaster to her credit system and incorporates Germany's obligations among the recognizable international settlements of the world."

THE New York Herald Tribune (Independent Republican) says: "The signing of the report of the Young committee opens a new chapter in the history of a Europe which in a few fateful midsummer days fifteen years ago slipped into the depths. One can never cease to marvel at the vitality of man, at his capacity to hope and work for and finally to achieve better things. * * * The settlement was arrived at, said Mr. Young, 'with the advice, not of governments, but of peoples functioning through a press which modern communications have made instantly effective in every interested country in the world.' * * * The process of ratification by the interested governments is hardly likely to be all plain sailing. But to each of them the tangible profits apparent in the settlement so far outweigh the theoretical losses that final adoption seems certain."

THE Brooklyn Daily Eagle (Independent Democratic) takes this viewpoint: "It is the work of experts at Paris in making it possible to mobilize Germany's obligations that gives an optimistic note to the Stressmann-Briand meeting at Madrid. Under the terms of agreement between Germany and France, which provided for the present meeting of experts to settle reparations, 'a commission of verification and conciliation,' was to be set up after the experts had agreed. The function of this commission is to arrange for Rhineland evacuation and to supervise the military situation on both sides of the Rhine. This commission should now be called into being. * * * To meet the enormous financial burdens which she is now willingly assuming, Germany is entitled to the help which prompt Rhineland evacuation will provide. It is to be hoped that the French, Belgian and British governments will cooperate in a prompt decision to end the occupation."

THE Washington Post (Independent) comments: "No opposition is expected to develop in consequence of the direct concessions made by the United States to Germany for the purpose of bringing about a general European settlement. It is possible, however, that the plan devised by the experts may contain ingenious clauses having the effect of shifting ultimately to Germany's shoulders the burden of the allies' debt to the United States."

Col. Davis Replies

ASSERTING that the records of the United States Federal courts contain "unanswerable refutations" of the testimony recently given before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee in Washington to the effect that the Alexanderson tuned radio frequency patent of the Radio Corporation would have been forced to give way to the Von Bronk patent, had the government seen fit to urge the Von Bronk patents before the courts, Col. Manton Davis, vice president and general attorney of the Radio Corporation of America, gave out a statement yesterday embodying the text of a letter which he wrote to members of the committee.

Col. Davis' statement was mainly in reply to the testimony given before the committee by Col. J. I. McMullen of the Judge Advocate General's office, in connection with the committee's hearings on Senator James E. Couzens' bill for the creation of a federal communications commission.

Col. McMullen was questioned when he appeared before the committee regarding the Schloemilch-Von Bronk patents seized by the United States from Germany just before the Armistice, as opposed to the Alexanderson patent of the Radio Corporation of America.

"My conclusion is," Col. McMullen stated, "that the Von Bronk patent anticipated the Alexanderson patent." He went on to say with reference to the two decisions in federal district courts, upholding the Alexanderson patent, that he regarded these cases as "rather a put-up job" to have the Alexanderson patent validated over the Von Bronk, where neither the government nor anyone else, were interested to sustain the Von Bronk patent.

Justice Filed Report

Replying to this and to Col. McMullen's further statement that the Alexanderson patent had been upheld "in a sort of left-handed way," Col. Davis pointed out that the department of justice had filed a carefully prepared brief in the Splitdorf case, which involved the two patents in question.

The Radio Corporation attorney went on to say, in his letter to members of the Senate Committee, that in this case, Judge J. L. Bodine in his opinion upholding the Alexanderson patent, declared that the court considered Alexanderson "had made a truly great invention."

"He strove for, and was the first to obtain," Judge Bodine held, "a method to secure selectivity by the use of the audion in circuits so arranged as to filter out the desired current and repeat it from circuit to circuit, building it up as it went in geometric progression, a truly great invention."

Col. Davis cited the "Edmond" case, in the District Court of the United States for the Southern District of New York, which was a suit in equity for infringement of the Alexanderson patent, as a complete refutation of Col. McMullen's assertion that this litigation was "a rather put-up job."

Thatcher's Opinion Cited

"Judge Thatcher's opinion," the Radio Corporation attorney explains in his letter, "disclosed that the 'Edmond' case was defended by the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company, and this may be some evidence that the litigation was real and not 'a rather put-up job' since Atwater Kent as a result of this litigation, took licenses and has since been paying royalties under the Alexanderson patent."

The full text of Col. Davis' letter follows:

"My dear Senator: "Statements recently made before the Interstate Commerce Committee would lead one to conclude that the Alexanderson tuned radio frequency patent, under which among others RCA has licensed certain radio manufacturers, has been sustained by the United States Courts not so much on its own merits as because the litigation was not genuine and real but 'was a rather put-up job.'"

"These statements seem to assert that had the Government of the United States seen fit to urge before the courts, the Schloemilch and Von Bronk patents seized during the war, that patent would then have prevailed over the Alexanderson patent. Insinuations were that the Department of Justice had not heretofore been disposed to protect the Government's interests, but that recently there had been a change of policy on this subject."

Recalls Testimony

"Some of these statements were that the Alexanderson patent was 'litigated

THE Birmingham News (Independent Democratic) asserts: "The statement made at Paris by Mr. Owen D. Young that, in seeking solution of the war-debt problem, he and his associates at the reparations conference worked as 'representatives of peoples rather than of governments,' sounds a distinctly new, as well as an indubitably true, note in human relationships. * * * It is heartening to believe that the world is now moving into the new order where reciprocal faith of peoples is to displace reciprocal distrust of governments. Unmistakably, here is an infallible sign that this planet is to be made safe for democracy—safe for the triumph of sweet reasonableness in human negotiations. * * * In a less inclusive field, Mr. Dwight W. Morrow has achieved at Mexico City what Mr. Young has wrought at Paris. The temper and method of these two men are not unlike. By each of these two men their country has been served with singular and lasting distinction. * * * Owen D. Young and Dwight W. Morrow are Americans in whom their countrymen with discriminating appreciation of what America really represents reflect upon with a deepening sense of pride."

THE New York World (Independent Democratic) notes: "The full text of the Young plan * * * shows that the experts who drafted it have been concerned fully as much with freeing Germany from political control as they have been with a revision of the reparations payments. The machinery for the operation of the new plan is not political but essentially commercial and financial in character. The Reparations Commission, provided for in the Treaty of Versailles and serving as a symbol of Germany's economic subjection, will have no further relations with the Reich. * * * In brief, Germany's indebtedness is not only scaled down and fixed at a definite sum, but the external controls which have offended her national pride are to be eliminated. She will pass from the status of a nation in the hands of a receiver into that of an independent debtor like Great Britain and the other countries which owe war debts. This change should go far toward removing the remaining causes for friction between Germany and her creditors."

THE New York Times (Independent Democratic) thinks: "The scheme for an international bank may be said to be the key to the whole Young problem. It will unlock problem after problem. First of all, it will cause German payments to flow, not directly to the Treasury of other governments, but to a financial institution and intermediary which will have full control of all the delicate questions of foreign exchange. Then the new international bank will proceed as promptly as possible to commercialize, through the issue of bonds, those portions of German payments which are 'non-postponable.' This looks directly to an early liquidation of a part of the German debt on the basis of its present value, and carries in it the promise that the whole will be eventually extinguished in that manner. * * * What matters today is the great sense of relief and the kindling of new hope which have spread through all the world with the announcement from Paris."

THE Philadelphia Inquirer (Republican) has this to say: "With the settlement of the reparations question, Europe, it may be said without exaggeration, enters upon a new era. The League of Nations Council meets for the first time at Madrid under happier auspices than it has thus far known at Geneva. The possibility remains that the Governments concerned may not ratify the agreement made in their names by their experts; but this is too remote a contingency to be considered seriously. The essential fact is that the economic balance is on the way to restoration, with a contingent effect upon the political balance. During the years that the agreement has to run there will necessarily be modifications of the debt settlements. But these will not modify to any material degree the principle upon which reparations now rest. * * * Although M. Poincaré may have trouble in securing from the French Parliament ratification of the Washington and London debt agreements, there is little doubt that eventually he will secure it. * * * Mr. MacDonald seems to have a certain suspicion of France, and of the Entente which the late British Ministry did so much to preserve. But he is unlikely to venture upon an antagonistic policy."

in a sort of left-handed way; that the Von Bronk patent was litigated up to the Supreme Court in Canada where it was decided that it had priority; that the litigation before the United States Court 'was a more or less informal proceeding. It was not really a litigation on the question of the Schloemilch and Von Bronk patent'; that this litigation 'was rather a put-up job.' The witness said he thought the United States had not intervened in the litigation which sustained the Alexanderson patent but that the policy in this respect had recently been changed by the Department of Justice; that he had made a study of these patents and his conclusion was 'that the Schloemilch and Von Bronk patent anticipates the Alexanderson patent.'

"I have the honor to invite your attention to enclosed documents as follows:

1. An opinion dated August 24, 1926, rendered by Judge J. L. Bodine of the United States District Court of New Jersey in the 'Splitdorf' case, 14 F. (2d) 643.

2. A photostat copy of the brief filed in the 'Splitdorf' case by the United States through Walter G. Winne, Esq., United States Attorney; Herman J. Galloway, Esq., Assistant Attorney General, and Harry E. Knight, Esq., Special Assistants to the Attorney General.

3. An opinion dated July 11, 1927, by Judge Thomas D. Thatcher, of the United States District Court of the Southern District of New York in the 'Edmond' case.

Recalls Splitdorf Case

"May I ask your special attention to pages 12-16 of Judge Bodine's opinion in the 'Splitdorf' case where after a studious and detailed comparison of the Alexanderson invention and the Schloemilch and Von Bronk patent, the Court sustains the Alexanderson patent and winds up by saying that Alexanderson made 'a truly great invention.'"

"May I likewise ask you to examine the photostat copy of the brief filed by the Department of Justice in the 'Splitdorf' case? Perhaps this brief may be esteemed an answer to those who, apparently without knowledge of the records they discuss, have criticized the Government of the United States, insinuating dereliction in these matters.

"May I ask you to examine pages 3, 4 and 9 of Judge Thatcher's opinion where the Alexanderson patent and the Schloemilch-Von Bronk patent are considered and the Alexanderson patent again sustained by another United States Court.

"The last paragraph on page 9 of Judge Thatcher's opinion discloses that the 'Edmond' case was defended by the Atwater Kent Manufacturing Company and this way may be some evidence that the litigation was real and not 'a rather put-up job' since Atwater Kent as a result of this litigation took licenses and has since been paying royalties under the Alexanderson patent. No one doubts that the Atwater Kent organization has the ability effectively to present in court any available defenses.

U. S. Case Final

"The American litigation referred to was not appealed and is now final. In the Canadian litigation, on the other hand, the Alexanderson patent was sustained by the lower court, which decision was reversed by the Supreme Court of Canada but jurisdiction of the controversy has been taken by the Privy Council, the highest Appellate Tribunal in the British Empire and there this Canadian litigation is still pending, undisposed of.

"Our disposition is not to respond piece-meal to attacks but to await orderly opportunity to be heard. It seemed to us, however, that these statements and insinuations, which concern not only our organization but the Department of Justice as well, required early answer and the bringing before interested Senators of unanswerable refutations written in the records of the United States Federal Courts. It had not appeared to us fair to the Senators themselves that they should feel impelled to continue a long course of examination assuming things to be true which were untrue when the truth could be so easily demonstrated by Court records and so easily brought to their early attention.

I am, my dear Senator,
Yours faithfully,
(signed) MANTON DAVIS.

Tilson Seeks Tariff

vantage possessed by the United States in the recent World War was the thousands of factories which had been built up under nearly a century of protection.

In considering the policy of protection from a national defense standpoint we must look not only at articles of ordnance, but at the thousand of other articles in ordinary use which are just as necessary to the soldier in the field as to the worker in civil life. The manufacture and production of all things which are necessities of life, such as clothing, shoes, food and articles used in transportation are as necessary in the winning of a war as the guns and powder used in actual combat. Very nearly the entire protective policy might be justified on this basis.

Bill Is In Accord.

The ability to produce within our own borders both munitions of war and the necessities of life is our strongest asset in time of need.

The tariff bill recently passed by the House and now pending in the Senate is in accord with our traditional protective policy. Its purpose has been to readjust rates in the 1922 Act to meet those changes which have occurred in the past seven years. A comparatively small number of changes have been necessary to accomplish this and practically no changes of any importance in the paragraphs relating to firearms and other articles of military use. The few changes made relate to revolvers and sporting rifles and are in the direction of increased protection and consequently of better national defense.

fellow men in civil life, remembering that "when we assume the soldier we do not lay aside the citizen." His first consideration must always be the national defense but that does not preclude a rational participation in the life of the community and a sincere interest in its problems and projects.

"Thus the life that you have chosen is rich in opportunities. To you the days will not be empty but brimming over with a manifold wealth of your opportunities of service as a useful citizen of the Republic. One of your greatest opportunities for service will be the voluntary observance of the laws of the State in which you live and of the Nation whose laws you will take oath to obey.

"Laws and rules of conduct are devised to assure a peaceful and orderly existence of individuals and States. Let us always remember that no war ever will be waged without the violation of some law. No blood ever will be shed on a battlefield if statutes and treaties are faithfully kept. The habit of observance of domestic law will breed respect for international obligations. Yours is a profession which upholds and restores peace. Therefore, no greater opportunity for service lies before you than the voluntary observance of the law. Yours is the obligation and the opportunity to become leaders in high thinking and right living in the communities where you will be stationed. The President, your Commander-in-Chief, has indicated that he expects you not only to do your duty as officers of the Army but also to perform faithfully the no less important duties of citizenship. Even two hundred years ago Frederick the Great charged officers with similar responsibilities when he said "I expect above all that an officer shall be an honest man and a good citizen of the State; without these qualities all his abilities and all his skill in war will be harmful rather than profitable."

"The War Department is cognizant of the great opportunities opening to the Army for rendering public service of a broad character and conferences are called from time to time in which the outstanding leaders of the professions meet with our Department representatives and give us their ideas as to how the Army can promote within its own sphere the interests of citizenship, religion, education and other nationwide activities and programs. We can still pioneer and open the way for the further progress of our country and it is our duty to aspire to such accomplishment wherever and whenever such activities will not prejudice our primary functions of being efficiently prepared to protect and support the will of our people as expressed and represented through their constituted civil officials.

"To take advantage of all these new opportunities to use your training and talents in the public service is your bounden duty. Seek out these opportunities and approach your problems high minded, without selfish consideration of your personal ends."

Will Attend Conference

Announcement is made in the Office of the Quartermaster General that a number of officers have been ordered to attend a conference at the Reno Quartermaster Depot, Ft. Reno, Okla., on June 18, 1929, in connection with the inspection and purchase of horses and mules for the Army.

The following officers will attend: Maj. Gen. B. F. Cheatham, Lt. Col. W. H. Neill, Maj. S. M. Williams, Maj. John F. Wall, Lt. Col. Steven C. Reynolds, Maj. E. G. Cullum, Q. M. C., Capt. N. E. Waldron, Cav., Lt. Fred L. Hamilton, Q. M. C.

At this conference the purchasing officers will see the different classes of horses and mules purchased throughout the United States and so regulate their buying as to maintain uniformity in type and a high standard for the Army.

These conferences have in the past been found to be of great value in producing uniformity in buying and in obtaining more satisfactory horses at a reasonable price.

2000 Qualify for C. M. T. C.

TWO thousand youthful residents of New York, New Jersey, and Delaware have successfully met the tests for entrance in the Citizens' Military Training Camps opening July 1. More than twice that number had filed applications to attend.

Of the two thousand, 1,633 have been directed to report to Plattsburg; 363 at Fort Niagara; two at Fort Adams, and two at Fort Monroe. All will spend 30 days in camp.

SERVICE NEWS AND GOSSIP

Coast Guard
Reserve Forces

ADMIRAL CHASE TO 12TH DISTRICT.

ASSIGNMENT of Rear Admiral J. V. Chase to be commandant of the Twelfth Naval District, announced by the Navy Department on June 13, fills the last important shore vacancy created by the annual shift in flag commands.

Admiral Chase, who is now on the General Board, will assume his new duties about the first of December. Following the retirement of Rear Admiral Thomas Washington on June 6, Capt. M. H. Simons became acting commandant and will be in command until relieved by Admiral Chase.

In the retirement of Rear Admiral Thomas Washington from the active service at the age of 64, the Navy loses another of the old school of officers who played a part in the transition of the old Navy to the new. In his forty-eight years of active service, the admiral had a wide range of duties. Born in Camden, N. J. in 1861, appointed to the Naval Academy at fifteen and appointed an Ensign junior grade in 1881. During his long service he rose through the grades until in 1923 he assumed the temporary rank of admiral in command of the Asiatic Fleet.

In the old Navy he served on the Tennessee, training ship Saratoga, receiving ship New Hampshire and the Albatross and Michigan. During the Spanish American War he was attached to the gunboat Bancroft and later on the Indiana.

During the war he had command of the U. S. S. Florida, operating in the War Zone with the British Grand Fleet and was awarded the distinguished service medal. From 1919 to 1923 he was Chief of the Bureau of Navigation and from there went to command the Asiatic Fleet.

"NAVY OR JAIL" FALLACY IS SPIKED.

THE spectacle of a police judge telling a defendant that he must "join the Navy or go to jail" and of a great news service sending an account of it out on its wires to member papers who printed the story without comment as to its infeasibility had the effect last week of arousing to immediate action Comdr. F. D. Pryor, officer in charge of the Navy recruiting station at New York.

Comdr. Pryor dispatched letters to the judge who handed down the unusual decision, to the news service that carried it and to the paper in which he had seen it printed.

"I am greatly surprised," the officer said in his letter to the judge, "that at this late day there should be any one so ignorant of the character of the Navy and the quality of the men composing it as to think that the Navy is a penal institution. As a matter of fact the Navy endeavors to find out whether or not the applicants for enlistment have any police record, and such a record is sufficient cause for rejection."

"There is no business or profession that has as much to offer to the average young man as has the Navy. This fact is widely known, and as a result there are many more applicants for enlistment than the Navy can possibly take. For example, during the last month we enlisted at this station only 7 per cent of the men who applied here for enlistment. That means that out of 485 applicants we accepted only 36. I give you the data in order to impress you with the fact that the Navy accepts nothing but the highest grade of young men and with the hope that you will not make such an error again."

The news service which carried the item, the Associated Press, replied that it always endeavors to keep such items out of its service and has succeeded except in that case. "Our attitude," the division news editor wrote, "is that such items are not of any general public interest apart from the added fact that they are hurtful to the Navy."

INVITE SOLONS TO N. G. ENCAMPMENT.

COL. IVAN BOWEN, commanding the 205th Infantry, Minnesota National Guard, has invited Senators Schall and Shipstead and Representatives Christgau, Claque, Andresen, Knutson, Kvale, and Selvig, who represent districts from which the 205th's personnel is drawn to attend the regiment's encampment this month and remain as long as they wish.

It is believed in the Militia Bureau that Col. Bowen's example, if followed by other regimental commanders, will be of considerable value in impressing legislators with the advantages of National Guard training and the items necessary to its successful conduct.

WANTS TO BE MAGRUDER'S AIDE.

THE sorely harassed naval officers whose duty it is to assign their brother officers to duties that meet with each individual's approval and at the same time satisfies the "higher-ups," had their little laugh the other day. One captain, who had been after a detail that was not immediately available, blessed with a sense of humor, suggested (unofficially) that to tide over the gap he be assigned to duty as chief of staff to Rear Admiral Magruder. Needless to say while the humor was appreciated the suggestion was not seriously considered and another berth was found for the captain.

PROPOSES TO ASCERTAIN FIRST AIRPLANE

THE PRESIDENT would be authorized to appoint a commission of five distinguished citizens, to whom those interested may present evidence as to which was the first successful heavier-than-air machine, according to the provisions of a House Joint Resolution introduced in the House this week by Representative Carter of California.

The resolution would require that the report and conclusions of the commission be filed with the President not later than November 1, 1930. A sum not to exceed $2,000 would be appropriated to carry out the provisions of the resolution.

CHESTER TO BE LAUNCHED JULY 2.

THE light cruiser Chester will go down the ways at Camden, N. J., July 2, marking the launching of the first of the nine gun type of cruiser of the light cruisers now under construction. The two already launched, the Salt Lake City and the Pensacola, are of the ten-gun type. All of the remaining five cruisers in this program will be of the nine-gun type.

The ten-gun ships have two turrets forward, one of three and one of two guns, and the same arrangement aft. The nine-gun type has only three turrets, two of three guns each forward and one of three guns aft. The advantages pointed out for the latter type include better distribution of weight and the less number of personnel needed on the three turret ships than one on the four turret ships.

The Salt Lake City is the first one scheduled for completion, the date set now being October 9, 1929. The Pensacola will be next on February 1, 1930, while the Chester and the Northampton and the Houston are scheduled for completion, June 13, 1930. The three others, the Louisville, the Chicago and the Augusta are due to be completed March 13, 1931.

TELEPHONE OPERATOR MAKES INFANT OF AVIATOR.

THE ease with which simple messages are sometimes garbled in transit, sometimes to the great chagrin of someone, was well demonstrated recently, with a Navy aviator bearing the brunt of the mistake. The message started out harmlessly as a movement report but ended by sending the aviator back to his childhood.

Ensign K. C. Huffman, of Great Lakes Naval Training Station, the subject of the incident, recently ferried a landplane from the base to Detroit, receiving another landplane at that station to be ferried to Pensacola. He wired the following movement report from Nashville, Tenn.: "Negat take one landplane Ensign Huffman arrived 1615 departed immediately for Birmingham stop notify Wright Field." The message was delivered by telephone to the operator in a local hotel, to be given to the commanding officer. This was the message that the operator delivered: While remarking, "Your aviators surely do send funny messages." Infant Huffman arrived 1615 departed immediately stop notify right field."

ANTICIPATE A. C. INCREMENT MOVE.

IT IS understood that the General Staff will confer in the near future on the subject of the increment for the Air Corps. While the Judge Advocate General's Office, in passing on the question in 1927, ruled that the increase in Air Corps personnel, was authorized to be apart from and in excess of that for rest of the Army under the 5-year program, it has been the President's policy not to exercise this authority. The possibility suggests itself that the General Staff meeting will result in an effort to induce the present Chief Executive to make the 5-year program effective.

GEN. DAVIS TO RETIRE

HAVING completed 46 years' active service, Maj. Gen. Richmond P. Davis, commanding the 4th Corps Area, will retire upon his own application some time after September 1. Special orders have been issued for his relief on that date, to proceed to his home and await retirement.

Gen. Davis, since he graduated from the Military Academy in 1887, has served in the following important posts—commandant, New London Artillery District; on the Coast Defenses of San Francisco and the Coast Artillery Training Center; as Assistant to the Chief of Coast Artillery; on the General Staff; as instructor at West Point; as Acting Chief of the 9th Corps Artillery in France, where he participated in the St. Mihiel and Meuse-Argonne offensives; as instructor and director of the Coast Artillery School; in command of the Coast Defenses at Manila and Subic Bays; and commandant of the Coast Artillery School.

While acting 9th Corps Chief he won the Distinguished Medal, which was awarded to him for "his direction of artillery employment and intelligent comment on its employment by subordinate commanders."

DISCUSS TRAINING PLAN.

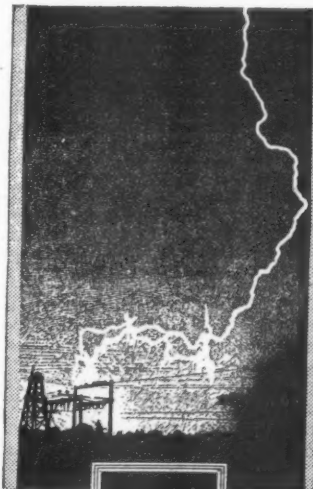

MAJ. WALTER E. PROSSER, in charge of the Photographic Section, Office of the Chief Signal Officer, went this week to Ft. Leavenworth to discuss with the command there the production of training photographs for the General Service Schools. Greatly increased use of motion pictures to supplement instruction in the Army special schools is contemplated, and will be executed as the necessary funds are made available. Training films long in use and partially obsolete will also gradually be brought up to date and special films will be produced from time to time for the training of all the branches.

PROPOSES TO LESSEN TIME FOR MEDAL AWARDS

A BILL was introduced in the House this week which would waive the limiting period of two years to enable the Board of Awards of the Navy Department to consider recommendations of the award of the distinguished-flying cross, to members of the Alaskan Aerial Survey Expedition.

Executive Order 4576 establishes a limit of two years from the date of the act or achievement meriting the award for the initiation of a recommendation of such award. The members of this expedition are: Lt. Wallace M. Dillon, Lt. Richard F. Whitehead, Lt. Eugene F. Burkett, Radio Elect. Claude G. Alexander, Chief Aviation Pilot Thomas G. Reid, Patrick A. McDonough, chief photographer, and William J. Murtha, photographer, first class.

Man's hand upon the lightning

The cathode-ray oscillogram of the lightning flash.

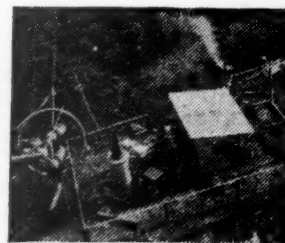

NOT yet is the lightning tamed. But the hand of science reaches forth. Already a way has been found to make the lightning write its own record of this destructive force measured in millions of horsepower, which is still the greatest enemy of high-voltage transmission lines.

One such record is reproduced on this page. It was taken on the lines of the Pennsylvania Power and Light System by a cathode-ray oscillograph—a high-speed camera developed in the General Electric laboratories. The surge that was recorded measured 2,500,000 volts; the record showed that the lightning lasted 40 millionths of a second.

Before science can control natural forces it must first develop data and measurements. Ultimately out of this comes control. Fundamental research of this kind seldom brings immediate financial return. Its ultimate value, both to the electrical industry and to the public, is beyond price.

Back of every product bearing the G-E monogram, from an electric locomotive to the tiny motor that runs a sewing machine, is the basic scientific research for which the General Electric laboratories are famous. Both in the home and in industry this monogram carries the same assurance of electrical correctness and dependability.

Select American Rifle Team

THE International Free Rifle Matches will be fired at Stockholm, Sweden, August 16, it has been announced by the National Rifle Association. The team will sail from New York on July 15. The squad includes Maj. Ralph S. Keyser, M. C., Team Captain, Maj. W. L. Clay, Ord., Team Ordnance Officer, Maj. Per Ramee, Inf., Team Adjutant, Lt. F. K. Soukup, Navy, Team Medical Officer, Marine Gunner Calvin Lloyd, Team Coach and shooting members.

The shooting members will actually fire in the matches and will be definitely selected when the team completes its practice abroad. Two will act as alternates.

From June 1st to 7th, 26 of the keenest marksmen representing the Army, Navy, Marine Corps, and the civilian rifle clubs from all parts of the country spent every day lined up on the big rifle range at Marine Barracks in Quantico. Their scores encourage the belief that better riflemen have been attracted to the tryouts than ever before in the history of American international teams.

The following made the team: Sgt. P. E. Woods, M. C.; Sgt. R. F. Seitzinger, M. C.; Gunnery Sgt. J. Blakely, M. C.; Sgt. J. B. Sharp, U. S. A., and W. L. Bruce, Cheyenne, Wyo. Sgt. J. F. Hankins, M. C., and Gunnery Sgt. M. Fisher, M. C., will be the two alternates.

Teams representing the United States, Sweden, Norway, Denmark, Czechoslovakia, France, Switzerland, Italy, Holland, Spain, Great Britain, Poland and Germany will take part in the matches this year. Last year, the contest was staged at Loosduinen, Holland. Switzerland won with a score of 5,391, beating the previous world's record by five points. Sweden was second and the United States placed third. America entered its first team in the International Matches in 1913 and came in third. For the next seven years, this country was not represented but in 1921 the United States sent a team to Europe and won the matches. The American Team also scored victories in 1922 and in 1924.

The conditions under which the International Matches are fired differ radically from the big American matches. The range is 300 meters. The target consists of ten rings. The rifle used is ten pounds heavier than the Army Springfield employed in most of the American matches. The United States Team will use this year the same rifles which it fired in 1928. They are Martins turned out by a Swiss firm and chambered for the Springfield cartridge.

RE-OPEN NAVIGATION SCHOOL

Wright Field (Special)—The second class of the Navigation School, inaugurated by the Air Corps under the direction of Capt. Clyde V. Finter, Lt. Albert F. Hegenberger and Mr. Bradley Jones, will convene here on July 1st. This course covers a four months' period and includes instruction in all types of astronomical, dead reckoning and radio navigation. The six pilots who will answer roll call for this second class are 1st Lts. U. G. Ent, W. T. Larson, H. A. Halverson, L. C. Blackburn, E. T. Selzer and Odas Moon.

lee, 2d, William D. Buckalew, John A. Collett, Charles H. Crichton, Thurlow W. Davison, William J. Galbraith, Edwin P. Martin, Henry S. Parsons, Jr., and Earl T. Schreiber.

Lt. Col. R. Stockton, Jr., and P. W. Evans; Maj. J. B. Richards, C. T. Harding, W. F. Rockwell, E. B. Grabow, W. A. Crede and M. E. Miller; Capt. F. E. Alexander, H. H. Hart, J. M. Baber, Jr., T. L. Williamson and H. S. McAllister; 1st Lts. L. V. Rhyne, L. H. Cox, E. V. Sourbier, F. T. Crossley, F. B. Hollingshead, and 2nd Lts. W. A. Cunningham and E. G. Hayward, Jr.

Maj. W. R. Woodward, who has been on duty at Washington Reserve Headquarters as executive officer of the 313th Field Artillery, commanding, has been directed to proceed to Ft. Leavenworth, Kans., not later than Sept. 10, where he will be on duty as a student at the Command and General Staff School. Maj. Woodward will be relieved of his duties in Washington by Maj. J. M. McDowell, who has been on duty as an instructor at the Field Artillery School, Fort Sill. Maj. McDowell will assume his duties at local Reserve Headquarters in September.

Maj. Gen. F. W. Sladen, commanding the 3rd Corps Area, has requested 36 volunteers for duty as assistant public relations officers for 14-day periods during the C. M. T. C. activities of the coming summer.

Caruthersville, Mo. (Special).—Lt. Col. J. M. Cannon, A. G. D. Res., has resigned his commission as such and accepted appointment as Captain, 140th Infantry, Missouri National Guard, and appointed Adjutant, 140th Infantry, at Caruthersville. Captain Cannon entered upon his duties June 1, 1929, and will move his family to Caruthersville in the near future. At present Mrs. Cannon and son are residing in Little Rock, Arkansas.

A total of 28 medical officers and one chaplain will undergo the active duty training of the 364th Medical Regiment, Col. H. C. Wooley, Medical Reserve, commanding, at Carlisle Barracks, Pa., from July 7 to 20, 1929. They are:

Col. Wooley, Lt. Col. T. S. Troy, Maj. N. Baggs, J. C. Eckhardt, W. Eldridge, C. Gray; Capt. R. E. Toms, 1st Lts. C. C. Carpenter, J. V. Dolan, D. H. Duffy, G. R. Gable, E. S. Goodyear, C. H. Hixson, J. Kelly, J. Kranichuck, E. W. Nicklas, P. B. Pullman, P. N. Taylor.

The dental officers of the regiment who will undergo this active training are Capt. J. A. Boston, 1st Lts. R. T. McCrystal, E. H. Sloan, C. R. Smith, H. M. Wheeler.

The Medical Administrative Corps Reserve officers taking this training are 1st Lts. J. D. A. Hogan, C. R. Rector, 2nd Lt. J. L. McCarthy. The Veterinary, Sanitary and Chaplain services will be represented by the following: Capt. E. Lash, V. R.; 1st Lt. E. H. Christian, San. Res., and Capt. G. E. Lenski, Chap. Res.

Greenville, S. C. (Special).—A membership of 420 is reported by the South Carolina Department, Reserve Officers' Association, of which Capt. L. E. Delinger, Dent. Res., is president. Seventy-five per cent of this membership is second lieutenants. The entire senior class of Clemson and Wofford Colleges, with the co-operation of the Regular Army officers there, were enrolled this year as members of the Association. Chapter memberships number as follows:

Greenville, 65; Charleston, 42; Columbia, 57; Spartanburg, 41; Anderson, 16, State at large, 200.

The executive committee of the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States has been named, as follows: Col. W. C. Cole, president of the Association, chairman; Brig. Gen. Blow at Org. Reserves Seen

THE circumstances leading up to the introduction by Representative James recently of H. R. 3592, to define the status of Reserve Officers have been described as of the most vital concern to the Organized Reserve. In short, the Treasury Department recently ruled that a Reserve Officer is an officer of the government, and the ruling is before the Department of Justice for confirmation.

The situation arose upon the debarment, early this year, of a Reserve Officer from Georgia from pleading a case against the Treasury Department. An old criminal statute was cited which imposes a felony penalty for the prosecution of a case against the government by a "government officer."

The Reserve Officers' Association of the United States will be heard by the Department of Justice before that department rules in the matter. The War Department will be represented at this hearing.

It is estimated that not less than one-sixth of the Reserve Officers, many of them in the highest ranks, would be affected by this ruling, under State laws as well as the Federal statute in question. Ex-Vice President Dawes, Ex-Secretary of War Davis, Ex-Assistant Secretaries MacNider and Robbins, and Assistant Secretary Hurley are all Reserve Officers. So are many Senators and Representatives, and public officials throughout the country without number.

It is contended by the Reserve Officers' Association that the Reserve Officers should not be deemed officers within the meaning of this old law. The commissions of Reserve Officers are issued in ANTICIPATION OF THE CREATION OF AN OFFICE IN WAR TIME. The President can only call them to active peace-time training with their consent; but then they exercise no command, and are in attendance at the camps in the capacity of students.

Mr. James' bill, which was introduced at the instance of Col. Walter C. Cole, of Detroit, president of the Reserve Officers' Association, reads:

"That section 37 of the National Defense Act of June 4, 1920, as amended by section 2 of the Act of September 22, 1922 (Forty-second Statutes, page 1033; section 356, title 10, United States Code), be, and the same is hereby, amended by adding thereto another sentence as follows:

"Reserve officers while not on active duty, or while on active duty for instruction or training only, shall not, by reason solely of their appointments, oaths, commissions, or status as reserve officers, or any duties or functions performed or pay or allowances received as reserve officers, be held or deemed to be officers or employees of the United States, or persons holding any office of trust or profit or discharging any official function under or in connection with any department of the Government of the United States."

It has been stated that if the Organized Reserves are really government officers, they could deplete the funds of the government department in which their status was "discovered" by their demands for back pay.

Res.; vice president, Lt. Col. Thomas Bailey, Inf. Res.; secretary-treasurer, Lt. W. Maisch, Inf. Res.

Other recent Department and Chapter elections in the R. O. A. resulted as follows:

Connecticut Department.—Maj. H. L. Perkins, president; Capt. Frank Pallotti, secretary; Capt. R. L. Gideon, treasurer; Capt. L. W. Schaefer, Maj. Jackson Palmer, Capt. G. Z. Smith, Lt. N. W. Alexander, Lt. James Kirwan, and Maj. J. P. Redding, vice presidents.

Arkansas Department.—Lt. Col. A. L. Jobe, president; Maj. E. O. Day, vice president; 1st Lt. R. L. Day, secretary-treasurer.

Passaic County, N. J., Chapter.—Capt. J. H. Reilly, president; Lt. J. W. Ryan, vice president; Lt. H. L. Jaycox, secretary; Lt. C. L. Cornwell, treasurer.

Calhoun County, Ia., Chapter.—1st Lt. F. B. Beckwith, president; Capt. M. R. McCaulley, vice president; 1st Lt. E. M. Shideler, secretary-treasurer.

Seattle Chapter.—Capt. M. A. Hartnett, president; 2nd Lt. H. J. Baum, vice president; Capt. G. E. Miller, secretary, 1st Lt. J. M. Sheldon, treasurer.

Southwest Louisiana Chapter.—Maj. F. E. Farr, president; Lt. Col. B. W. Eddy, secretary-treasurer.

Louisville Chapter.—Capt. G. S. Gilbert, president; Maj. O. E. Block, vice president; Maj. Forrest Moss, secretary-treasurer.

Ft. Snelling (Special).—Conferences in the Medical Department Reserve Officers' camps to be held here this summer will be conducted by selected Reserve Officers.

SATURDAY, JUNE 15, 1929

"The very nature of the higher positions held by officers of the senior grades also necessitates greater expenses in many ways." * * * HEARINGS BEFORE SPECIAL PAY COMMITTEE, 1921.

WE ARE DELIGHTED that the Interdepartmental Pay Board has determined to make an unanimous report in support of increases in Service pay. Leaders of the two Houses of Congress had warned us—and we conveyed the warning to the Services—that disagreement would prevent any action whatsoever. The Board apparently has avoided disagreement by leaving to Congress the decision as to the principle or principles upon which the new pay schedule will be based. If this be true, then we will have debates at the Capitol as to whether the Army system is better than that of the Navy and vice versa. Whether congressional decision, which will be compromise, is more desirable than Service agreement is a question. The latter would have expedited the passage of the needed legislation. Now we fear, the question of obtaining the increase in pay will be made a matter of controversy before the congressional committees. This means delay, and delay imposes further hardships upon officers and especially their wives, and the enlisted personnel.

WE SINCERELY HOPE there will be a minimization of controversy when the matter gets before Congress. The Services should realize there is a strong sentiment in both the Senate and House in favor of a correction of the evils which exist. Members of both bodies with whom we have talked agree that officers and men are underpaid, express no surprise at the resignations and retirements which are occurring, and admit that something must be done to enable the Services to live decently. Most of them, however, say the Services ought to know what they want and ought to submit drafts of legislation which will be so sane and so free from controversy that enactment can speedily occur. We realize there is a great difference between the existing Army and Navy systems, but surely there can be a solution which will provide that adequate pay, for which we are earnestly fighting. We ask our readers to let us have their views, assuring them that their ideas through the columns of the Journal will receive the consideration of members of the Committees which they will deserve.

ASSIGNED TO THE different Arms of the Services are the young men just graduated from the Military and Naval Academies. They will be welcomed by their older comrades-in-arms with that bon camaraderie which makes for esprit du corps. Entering upon their career, they will face conditions for which they are prepared, and we are certain they will disport themselves in a manner worthy of the splendid institutions which gave them instruction. How many of us can look upon our graduation, recall the trepidation with which we reported, the mistakes we made and which caused us such humiliation, and, learning from the experience, fitted ourselves to perform intelligently the duties which eventually were entrusted to us! Nor have we ever forgotten those who gave us a helping hand over the rough spots we encountered. The classes of 1929 have a great future before them. They face a changing situation in warfare. That they will merit their responsibilities, as have those who have preceded them or under whose command they are, we do not doubt.

CANADA, TOO, has her pacifists. There was an item in an appropriation bill authorizing the expenditure of $500,000 for military training in the Dominion Schools. A woman member of Parliament, Miss Agnes McPhail objected to the provision on the ground that it fostered a military spirit in Canadian youth and proposed that the appropriation be cut to $1. The proposal was beaten nearly four to one, showing that Canada has appreciation of the importance of national defense, and has not forgotten the unpreparedness which was responsible for the heavy losses her devoted forces suffered during the early stages of the World War.

THE INTERSTATE COMMERCE COMMISSION, by Senate direction, will make an investigation of all communications, domestic and international. The purpose is hostile, but we are hopeful that it will turn out advantageously to the interests of the country. We already have referred to the wise policy of the British Government, which promotes combinations of cables, telegraph, telephone and wireless, and whose one effort is to dominate communications all over the world. Capt. S. C. Hoover, U. S. N., foresees international arbitration of the question of frequency assignments. We have no doubt the British will be on hand, backed by their government, and amply fortified to acquire the frequencies which will be in the best interest of the Empire. Perhaps the Interstate Commerce Commission will be brought to realize the imperative necessity of the United States observing the policy the British are pursuing.

SENATOR KING'S resolution for an investigation of the case of Admiral Magruder, if adopted, will lead to a determination of whether or not an Officer can be administratively punished for an expression of views on the adequacy of American national defense. We had hoped Secretary Adams, upon the assumption of his office, would give orders restoring the Admiral to duty. We feel personally this should be done. It is grotesque to continue a punishment for such a length of time as that the Admiral has suffered, without giving him an opportunity before a Court of Officers, to determine whether or not he was guilty of an offense. The whole procedure smacks of a tyranny which should not be tolerated in free America.

WE WISH TO CONGRATULATE Maj. Gen. W. R. Smith and West Point upon the honors showered on the American Federation of Labor in the person of its President, Mr. William Green. As our readers know, American Labor is determinedly in favor of adequate preparedness, and Mr. Green redeclared its attitude in the speech he delivered. Conferences have been in progress between Mr. Green and the War Department, and Mr. Green and Congressman James, looking toward the formulation of a satisfactory draft law. There is promise of agreement, so that in the event of war a law will be on the statute books under which the draft can be applied to both Labor and Industry. The patriotic attitude of the Federation and its far-sighted president assures better defense conditions for America in case of unprovoked attack.

HEARD IN THE LOCKER ROOM

I'm gonna hafta check up on you, Prunehoggle; you was late for inspection this morning.

But, Sgt., it happens so seldom.

Seldom! Say, you're only on time when you sleep on your watch. I guess we'll find out you overstayed your furlough when we look into this.

Me? Overstay my furlough? Without permission? Why, Sgt.! Tain't so; I kissed my girl good-bye last night at half-past eleven.

Zatso? and when did you leave her?

You shoulda been along Sgt.; we went and heard Walter Damrosch's orchestra.

Was he in good form?

Fair; too bad he's so nervous, though. Nervous? He's been leading orchestras for years.

Then how come his hand shook so? One guy was singin' songs, too. He sang the English pants song.

That's a new one; how does it go?

"London breeches falling down."

I understand that sweetie of yours is a holy terror for breaking dates.

You said it; she broke every date she ever went out with.

What were you doing in the afternoon—fishing?

No; drownin' worms. Say, Sgt., how about them dollars you borrowed? This is the fourth time I had to ask now.

How about me? I had to ask you seven times before you'd lend it. Beat it; I got to write my wife.

Wife; Why I thought you was naturally round-shouldered.

Pull another like that and I'll beat you to a jelly.

What flavor?. Ouch!

A DUB AT QUICK FIRING

"Is your wife a good cook?"

"Is she? Why, if you turned her loose in the kitchen she would have to use the range finder to locate the stove."
—Calif. Guardsman.

'TIS A WICKED WORLD

Ball Player—We gave the umpire fifty bucks to let us win the game.

Friend—And still you lost?

Player—Yeah; the umpire was crooked.
—The Guidon.

CHURLISH BRUTES

Dora—What is domestic incompatibility?

Nora—That's when you want a divorce and your husband won't sock you hard enough to leave a bruise.
—16th Infantry News.

OUTSIDE ITS PROVINCE

Voice on the phone—Who is this speaking?

Recruit Clerk—How the hell do I know? This is a telephone, not a periscope.
—The Sentinel.

WHO'LL KNOW THE DIFFERENCE

A certain sales manager was to have addressed a convention. Unable to reach his destination on account of a flood which washed away a portion of the railroad, he sent this message:

"Cannot come. Washout on line."

Back came the answer:

"Borrow a shirt and come any how."
—The Guidon.

PORTS OF CALL

A colored soldier was called to spend the night from camp, but couldn't get a pass. Attempting to steal out, he was halted by the guard with: "Who's there?" "It's me," growled Rastus, pulling his razor—"and dis heah blade am all de permit I has; but listen, niggah, Ah's got a mammy in heaven, a pappy in hell, and a sweetheart in the city, and I'se gwine to spend the evenin' wid one of them."
—Cactus.

WHEN YOU ARE TRANSFERRED

ASK the Journal about living conditions, etc., at the Post to which you have been directed to proceed. Questions will be answered as soon as a possible either in this column or by letters. Address Post Editor.

G. G.—Ft. Hoyle, Md., is 19 miles from Belair, 25 miles from Baltimore. A private car is necessary. Post children attend private school. Servants, not easily procured, average $30 per month. A post exchange, commissary, and A. and P. store are available. Quarters are sufficient for assigned and visiting officers; 31 married sets, 17 bachelor sets in club. Three miles of bad road to main highway are sometimes impassable in winter. Bathing, boating, fishing, hunting (especially duck), polo and tennis are to be enjoyed on the post. Privileges of the Edgewood golf course are available. Average Middle Atlantic States climate, neither very hot nor very cold, prevails. Field Artillery garrisons the post. There is an Episcopal chaplain assigned to Edgewood Arsenal and Ft. Hoyle; Catholic services are conducted at the post by a civilian priest.

ASK THE JOURNAL

ALL questions on which our readers desire information will be answered as soon as possible after receipt. If there is any query you have in mind, send it to the ARMY AND NAVY JOURNAL QUESTION EDITOR. It will save you time and trouble. Avail yourselves of this "Service to the Services."

D. M. T.—The National Guard is a component of the Army of the United States only when it is in the service of the United States—when it responds to a call by the President in time of emergency. Dual commissions serves the purpose of facilitating the call of National Guardsmen to Federal service in time of national emergency.

IN THE JOURNAL 60 YEARS AGO

The officers of the Army of the Potomac were gathering in New York for their first grand reunion since the war.

The steamer Nantasket was completed. Her engines were the first to be built at the Portsmouth Navy Yard.

A new system of mounting and working guns was designed and patented in London. This system consisted of a mode of mounting two guns on one carriage and firing them from behind a parapet or screen, or from a pit, and so working them that when they were horizontal or side by side they were both beneath and protected by the parapet, but when moved so as to lie one over the other, the upper one could be fired.

The standard of recruits for infantry regiments of the British Army was lowered to five feet six inches.

A machine gun, consisting of thirty-seven barrels, planed so as to fit together, of Belgian manufacture, was being tried out in England.

Plans were being made for the opening of the Suez Canal.

George Maxwell Robeson, of Camden, N. J., was appointed Secretary of the Navy in place of Adolph E. Borie, who resigned because of the pressure of private business.

King Addresses Graduates

future of the Infantry is indeed safe, if you will only continue to display those same qualities in whatever fields of activity to which you are called in the future. I betray no secret when I say that your records as classes have no equal in the history of the School. Such results cannot but instill in every officer an optimism with respect to the future of our Infantry and of our Army.

"Probably no more serious mistake could be made on our part than to leave you today with the idea that you have acquired the last words as to the technique and tactics of the infantry arm. To the best of our ability we have passed before you the present status of infantry methods. We are each day, however, increasingly aware that a revolution in methods of warfare impends, as startling and far reaching as was the French revolution in the political sphere. We are standing today at the portals of a new military era. No one can foretell with certainty, where the path will lead us. Military history tells us that prior to the 20th Century, Infantry was reorganized, reequipped and retrained every hundred years. Each such change in armament and organization brought with it a revolution in methods of tactics and technique, even though the underlying Principles of War remained unchanged.

"With the dawn of the 20th Century, scientific development throughout the world speeded up. New inventions and improvements appeared in increasing numbers and at lessening intervals. Today this scientific development is almost continuous. It places an added burden on our profession, if our nation is to retain the great role it has acquired in world affairs. It is essential for each of us seriously to study new scientific developments, primarily to find their application to the infantry in combat, and secondarily their general relation to National Defense as a whole.

"The World War and in particular the year-long stalemate on the Western front shattered for a time the long-held confidence of military men in the advantages of offensive combat. The decided defensive proved its worth, and for three years numerically superior armies on the Western front were checked by far smaller forces on the defensive. The success of the defensive during these years was due primarily to the application of modern scientific developments to tactics, particularly those having to do with increased fire power by automatic weapons. Not until 1918, and then only partially, did the offensive regain its traditional prestige. Still today, all armies of the world stand under the shadow cast by the experiences of the World War. We are still groping toward methods which will restore to offensive action its old decisive qualities, and in particular how to revive battlefield mobility. We are dimly aware of the role the infantry tank played in the closing scenes of the war. We feel today that its development has hardly begun. The future is a closed book, which we must open and read therein.

"Transport each year is becoming more and more motorized throughout our country. Rates of movement and production are being speeded up, with each new scientific development. It is inconceivable that armies will remain indifferent to these changes.

"It is evident that in the changes going on in this respect in the world around us, lies the probable key for restoring mobility on the battlefield and in the theatre of war. Increased motorization is evident. The mechanized army may still be a dim dream of the future, but each year it is becoming a more alarming dream to such of us as see the summation of all military development still centered on the methods of the World War. For the future we must learn to think and to work in hours and minutes instead of days and weeks.

"Here at Benning this year your instruction has been primarily, and naturally, in the existing methods, with a mere suggestion of the new. We do not yet understand the methods and capabilities of those new weapons now in process of development. We must start with a thorough knowledge of what we now have. Only by a thorough grounding in what is proven can we reach out and estimate the value of that which is still uncertain.

"One thing seems inevitable. The developments in ordnance, air material and motor vehicles will not leave the Infantry untouched. Wherever possible these developments must be made our own, if we are to retain in the future the dominant role which Infantry has played in the past. As Infantry

Tank School Graduates

Fort George G. Meade (Special).—Thirty-six officers were graduated from the tank school here with exercises June 11.

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua was unable to attend the exercises but sent the following message:

"I regret my inability to attend the graduating exercises of the Tank School. I congratulate the members of the Officers' Class upon their successful termination of the course at the Tank School. The increasing tendencies of all countries to motorize and mechanize are rapidly magnifying the importance of our Tank School.

"The graduates are now and will be hereafter marked men in their arm. Infantry will depend upon them for future progress in this all important field. I wish to commend the students, instructors, school staff, and the troops for the successful completion of another year's work and for the great progress shown during the year."

The graduates, who are infantry officers unless otherwise indicated, are: Lt. Col. C. E. Delaplane; Majors G. F. N. Dailey, and C. C. Bensen, cavalry; Captains J. R. Hermann, L. O. Frizzell, cavalry; C. H. Unger, cavalry; G. W. Skinner, L. W. Brown, W. E. Remington and D. P. Murphy; First Lieutenants H. T. Morgan, R. R. Loudon, M. V. Brown, C. C. Dusenbury, R. L. Salzmann, F. X. Oberst, E. J. McAllister, M. W. Bonwell, C. Robinson, L. C. Paquet, A. S. Rice, A. L. Moore, C. K. Gailey, W. D. Long, S. R. Hinds, W. O. Collins, I. A. Robinson, L. P. Leone, A. C. Ramsey and C. R. Landon; Second Lieutenants J. P. Cleland, E. A. Suttles, H. M. Grizzard, A. J. Thackston, E. J. F. Glavin and N. E. Fooks.

Writes of Armistice

A YALE UNIVERSITY news statement says that an article by Charles Seymour, provost of Yale University, who was chief of the Austro-Hungarian division of the American commission to negotiate peace, will appear today in the "Yale Review" and will reveal facts surrounding the causes which led the Allies to grant Germany's request for the armistice.

"Prof. Seymour," the statement reads, "quotes from a letter written to Col. Edward M. House which shows that it was the opinion of Marshal Foch that prevailed upon the Allies to accept the request" (for the signing of the armistice).

"Prof. Seymour says the charge that except for President Wilson's influence Foch 'would have led his triumphant armies across the Rhine and dictated peace in Berlin' is 'based upon a complete misconception,' and uses the official records of the armistice discussions, which are included in the House papers, to prove his assertion. He also reveals that of all the generals who participated in the discussions on the request, 'Pershing was the only one who did not wish to grant an armistice, and urged the continuation of the offensive against Germany.' When Col. House laid Pershing's memorandum advising the continuance of the war before Clemenceau and Lloyd George, Prof. Seymour says, 'they brushed it aside with some contempt.'" officers we should so train ourselves, that should another war come, we need not confine ourselves to the weapons now on hand in the army, but understand and know how to apply those other means, which modern science has made available for the army, even though they may not be listed in our equipment tables. This mental attitude we have sought this year to develop in you. The course you have just completed we hope suggests many possibilities. They can, however, only bear fruit, if you view this day, as in the fullest sense of the word Commencement Day. You can be loyal to this School and to the Infantry, only if you follow the future development of the Infantry, and contribute your portion thereto.

"A word of caution, however. Do not jump from the actual of today to the theoretical of tomorrow. Do not forget that one rule of our Army is to be prepared to fight now, not ten years hence. But we can only with peril to our country shut our eyes to the changes passing before us. Whatever occurs you must retain the ability we have tried to give you this year, to estimate the situation correctly, make your decision soundly and swiftly and capably direct the execution of the plan.

James Warns Board

there seems to be a possibility of agreement. By combining in a joint schedule different scales for certain grade, the joint pay principle would be maintained in the main and the chief obstacle to an agreement removed. This variation might even be placed on a temporary basis as an expedient to take care of the great group of Army officers caught by the present stagnation in promotion.

If, as it now appears likely, the board adopts the fourth course there seems little hope of a satisfactory agreement. For weeks the board has been working in the utmost harmony striving to get together on common ground. Up to a certain point its efforts have been successful but beyond that little progress has been made. To meet the Army viewpoint would require an abandonment of principle by the naval members and visa versa. The obvious solution from the Service standpoint would be to recommend separate pay schedules, but with Congress committed against it the prospects for the increases so obviously needed and the removal of the existing inequalities would be sadly damaged.

In his comments on the pay situation Chairman James made it plain that so far as he was concerned it was a case of "No agreement, no pay legislation." He declared that he would oppose any legislation that did not provide identical terms for both branches.

Asserting that he hoped consideration was being given the enlisted men as well as the officers he said, "If the men representing the Army and Navy at present are unable to agree, they must either go into conference again and reach an agreement, or the Secretaries of War and Navy should appoint new men.

If the board disagrees he said that it must be from one of the three following reasons:

Because of the nature of the evidence submitted they do not feel that they are justified in asking for a raise now.

One branch is asking for a higher rate of pay than the other branch feels justified in seeking at the present time.

One side or the other is seeking special consideration.

A. C. Technical Courses

Chanute Field (Special).—Capts. W. C. Thomas, P. C. Durbin, and J. R. Wright, Air Res., and 1st Lts. W. R. Hillford, Wash. N. G., and F. P. Sansom, Conn. N. C., recently completed their courses in aerial photography in the Air Corps Technical School.

Courses have commenced for armorers, crew chiefs, general photographers radio mechanics and operators. A parachute riggers' course will begin on June 24, to be completed August 3.

Air Warfare Seen by Jahncke

NEWS dispatches from New Orleans this week quoted Assistant Secretary of the Navy Jahncke as saying that if America enters another war it will be won or lost in the air.

He was quoted as saying that he did not favor a separate air department, explaining that in his opinion it would be equivalent to attempting to make a general out of an Admiral, as fliers could not learn both Army and Navy tactics.

Jahncke, the dispatches said, classified the present Coast Artillery as obsolete, declaring that mobile gunnery mounted on railroad cars would be the only effective coast weapons in another war.

Navy M. C. Men Commended

LETTERS of commendation have been sent to 17 officers of the Navy Medical Corps for papers which they wrote and which were printed in the Naval Medical Bulletin. The Surgeon General of the Navy appointed a special board to select the papers considered to be worthy of letters of commendations.

Those selected and the papers for which they were commended were: Lt. Comdr. J. C. Adams, "The Physical Examination for Flying," with special reference to the eyes; Comdr. E. W. Brown, "Chemical Warfare and the Naval Medical Officer"; Comdr. G. F. Cottle, "Fractures"; Capt. E. F. DuBois, Medical Corps Reserve, "Physiology of Respiration in Relationship to the Problems of Naval Medicine"; Lt. Comdr. E. C. Ebert, "Treatment of Gonorrheal Ophthalmia"; Lt. Comdr. E. G. Hakansson, "Experiences with the Blood Sedimentation Test"; Lt. T. H. Hayes, "Hookworm as a New Health Problem in St. Croix"; Comdr. L. W. Johnson, "Cases Illustrating Maxillo-Facial and Plastic Surgery"; Lt. G. H. Larson, "Dermatitis Exfoliativa Due to the Arspenamines"; Lt. Comdr. G. H. Mankin, "Medical Aspects of the Salvage of the United States Submarine S-4"; Lt. Comdr. R. P. Parsons, "Spinal Fluid in Tropical Syphilis"; Lt. W. M. Simpson, Medical Corps Reserve, "Tularemia"; Lt. Comdr. E. E. Smith, "Heat Stroke a Thermoregulatory Incompetency"; Lt. O. B. Spalding, "The Pineal Shadow"; Rear Admiral E. R. Stitt, "Our Disease Inheritance from Slavery"; Comdr. M. A. Stuart, "General Considerations on Amoebic Dysentery"; and Lt. Comdr. P. W. Wilson, "Notes on a Malarial Survey at Port de Paix, Haiti."

A. N. C. Supt. to Convention

Maj. Julia Stimson, Superintendent of the Army Nurse Corps, will leave for Philadelphia next week to attend a joint convention of the National League of Nursing Education, of which she is a director, the American Hospital Association, the International Hospital Association, and several other large nursing groups.

Many foreign nurses, who are already in this country preparatory to attending the international convention at Montreal this August, will attend the Philadelphia Meeting.

WOULD INCREASE PENSION.

A bill introduced in the Senate this week in the form of an amendment to the Act of March 3, 1915, would extend to the widows or dependents of Naval officers who die and enlisted men who are disabled as a result of submarine accidents the same pensions as are allowed in the case of aviation accidents.

Ranks Furnish Graduates

WINNING high academic, military and athletic honors, 15 cadets who entered the U. S. Military Academy from the ranks of the Regular Army received their diplomas from Secretary of War Good, June 13. The entire group attended West Point preparatory schools conducted throughout the Army for enlisted men and six of them served in the Hawaiian Islands under Maj. Gen. W. R. Smith, superintendent, when he was Department Commander. They all were commissioned second lieutenants in the Regular Army.

R. L. Hill, formerly sergeant, 3rd Engineers, Hawaii, gained the highest academic honors finishing second in the class of 299. He was a captain in the cadet corps and has won both a letter and monogram in athletics. B. C. Muse, who is a cadet captain, also served with the 3rd Engineers and was first sergeant of his company. He has been on the A football squad the past four years, and also a heavy-weight boxer.

Kaj E. Rasmussen served with the 19th Infantry, Hawaii, and at West Point won a major "A" three times, together with three gold stars for victories over Navy teams. He was captain of last year's undefeated cross country team. Charles Sommers served almost three years with the 11th Ordnance Company in Hawaii. He is graduating number 69, and was advertising manager of the Howitzer. Joseph Horridge, another graduate of the Hawaiian school, was a private in the 27th Infantry. He is a cadet sergeant and stands 63rd in his class. Horridge coached the plebe basketball team last year, and also helped cadets who were deficient academically.

Frank D. Merrill was a staff sergeant in the 11th Engineers, Corozal, Panama, before winning his appointment to West Point. He graduated a cadet lieutenant, and was commissioned in the Cavalry. H. J. Vander Heide served an enlistment with the 2nd Infantry. He has been active in athletics as a coach, and in a number of extra curricular activities. Carl R. Jones, now a cadet lieutenant, formerly a private in the 8th Infantry, is graduating number 16, and will be commissioned in the Engineers. James M. Gavin, another cadet lieutenant and battalion adjutant, was a corporal in the 2nd Coast Artillery, Canal Zone. Gavin has passed the Air Corps physical examinations, and was ordered to Texas for flying training.

Harlan R. Statham, formerly of the 12th Observation Squadron, Fort Bliss, Texas, has been a prominent member of the cross country squad, winning his letter and also a monogram in track. He was a cadet sergeant, and on graduation was assigned to the Infantry. Morris Goldberg served with the 16th Infantry at Governors Island, and was graduated a cadet sergeant. He has won his major letter twice in lacrosse where he played goalie and once in soccer.

William D. Hamlin was stationed at Mitchel Field, and Chanutte Field with the Air Corps, prior to entering the Military Academy. Hamlin was engaged in seven sports here, and has applied for assignment in the Signal Corps.

Ezekiel W. Napier served with the 83rd Field Artillery, Fort Benning, Ga. While at West Point he has been on the gym, track and wrestling squads. He attained the grade of cadet sergeant. Everett C. Hayden, another ex-regular, was a member of the 3rd Signal Battalion, Boston, Mass. He has been prominent in intramural athletics and on graduation was commissioned in the Signal Corps.

The West Point Preparatory School at Hawaii has been conspicuously successful this year as cadets finishing numbers 1, 2 and 19 all attend it.

Under the policy adopted by Gen. Smith, the school was thrown open not only to regular soldiers but also to all young men who had received congressional appointments or were preparing to take the presidential examination. H. F. Sykes, who graduated number 1, attended this school as well as Hill, number two, and Wilson, number nineteen.

WOULD INCREASE TIME

Commissioned officers of the Army who were formerly Army field clerks and field clerks, Quartermaster Corps, would be credited with and entitled to count all classified field service rendered by them as headquarters clerks and as clerks of the Quartermaster Department, Subsistence Department and Quartermaster Corps, in determining length of service for longevity pay and retirement, if a bill introduced in the Senate this week is enacted into law.

Tells of Army Radio

By BLAINE BURTON

JUST across the Potomac from Washington, on the rim of the Fort Myer Military Reservation is a radio station that is little known to the public. Located in an ancient red brick building that is hidden from the main road by a beautiful modern residence, this little hive of industry "carries on" a volume of business that would surprise the layman. Here are located the transmitters of "WAR," the net control station of the Army, operated by "remote control" from the Munitions Building in Washington. These transmitters chatter and hammer away day and night handling the Government's business. Reception is obtained from other stations through diminutive antennae atop the Munitions Building itself. Though located three miles apart, the receiving instruments and the transmitting equipment are members of the same radio-telegraph station.

Operating on frequencies ranging from 4000 KC to 16000 KC, this station carries on communication direct with Boston, Mass.; Atlanta, Ga.; Fort Leavenworth, Kans.; Chicago, Ill.; Fort Hayes, Ohio; Fort Sam Houston, Texas; San Francisco, Calif., and Honolulu, Hawaii. Through these stations business is relayed to outlying stations of their respective radio "nets."

The traffic handled consists of the Post Office, Department of Agriculture, Civil Service Commission, Department of Labor, War Department and other department radiograms. These make a volume of from 1,000 to 1,500 messages daily. Messages containing 200 to 300 words are ordinary, every day affairs. Those of 500 to 600 words are not extraordinary, and many that run into thousands of words are handled.

Flood was Problem.

Since the station was put in operation a year ago, there has been but a single message sent containing one word only.

When the Mississippi went on a rampage, drowning many, endangering thousands and destroying generally, the personnel of the War Department's radio station was put on its mettle. Traffic increased, it seemed, in direct proportion to the river's waters. Our Government officials take immediate action in such situations. Each department turned to the radio as the surest and most flood-proof means of communication at hand. More and more radiograms were filed for transmission. Day and night the operators sat at their desks translating printed matter into dots and dashes that would be read by the trained ear of the operator at the distant station and translated again into printed matter. On the "receivers" the converse operation was carried on simultaneously with transmission. (The operators work in pairs. This system is known as duplexing or to use the trade term "dupe." Two men work at each of the two sets that are in communication. Messages travel both ways at the same time; one to, the other from each station. Duplexing doubles the volume of business handled for a given time for the setup). The immense increase in business was handled smoothly and to the entire satisfaction of all concerned.

Later, when practically the same situation arose because of the same distressing conditions in Florida, traffic was handled in like manner.

Tense Maximum Situation.

Recent political and martial eruptions in Mexico created a tense atmosphere along the southern border. This tenseness made itself felt in Washington. Traffic in the radio room in the Munitions Building went on an upward curve but was handled with the same quiet dispatch that has characterized the work done at this station throughout its existence.

Station "WAR" is operated by members of the 17th Signal Service Company, Signal Corps, U. S. Army. The organization is commanded by Capt. Frank E. Stoner. Only first class operators are used on certain circuits. On other circuits where the traffic is lighter and therefore slower, men of lesser ability may be used. As men leave the service at the expiration of enlistment, some are re-enlisted, others never return, and must be replaced. Because of the replacement problem, the Army Radio School at Fort Monmouth, N. J., is maintained. Young technicians who spend three years familiarizing themselves with the methods and equipment of the Signal Corps, especially those who attend the Fort Monmouth School "have no regrets."

New Transmitter.

In the near future a modern transmitter station is to be erected at Fort Myer to dispense with the one in use at present. The five transmitting sets that are now in use in the present station will be replaced with later and more efficient models. One of the Signal Corps' powerful sets, now located at Annapolis and operated by wire from the Munitions Building, will be dispensed with.

The radio sets used at present by the Signal Corps are of different types. Some of these sets were built by the Navy, some by commercial firms and others by the Signal Corps. All give good service.

The new "WAR" will not display a battery of towering masts as does her neighboring station "NAA" at Arlington. In radio construction, high towers are no longer in vogue. At "WAR" high frequency sets operating on short waves will be installed. Such sets are designed for efficient operation through synchronization of integral parts rather than by application of immense power. In other words, if you care for metaphor, back yonder in the time of its childhood, radio must needs have a tower from the top of which to scream and squawk to make itself known to the world. Since then it has grown and developed. It has graduated from boarding school and has changed its name from "wireless telegraphy" to the more classic cognomen of "radio." It has taken voice culsings below in gentle modulated tones, ture rather than scream, squawk and howl from atop a lofty tower, it now instead of shrieking to attract notice it now croons serenely in the fullness of knowledge that its song will be heard. This mature, educated and cultured radio will sing from the new "WAR."

SUBJECT DEMANDS SOLUTION.

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

IN MY judgment there is no subject before the services today, that so imperatively demands a solution as that of adequate pay for officers of all services. Furthermore, while the junior officers need increases the serious part of the pay schedule does not pertain to junior officers, but to the senior officers in all services. Junior officers in most cases after a few years service have one or more small children to care for but when these junior officers become senior officers they still have one or more children to educate and the education of children these days costs money.

The statements one sees so frequently in the service papers and in official reports that the junior officers are suffering for want of adequate pay implies that the senior officers are in a better position as to the pay schedule. This, in my observation, experience and judgment, is pure fiction.

The base pay of a General Officer, of a Colonel and of a Lieutenant Colonel is ridiculous and this pay, owing to limitations imposed as to rental and subsistence as it applies today is inequitable, discriminating and absurd. On the contrary the pay of a 2nd Lt. $125—with quarters and a ration, is better pay than the average boy gets upon entering a business or profession upon graduation from college. The increases up to and including six years of service are adequate as compared with civilian positions as the pay schedule now stands. This applies to 1st Lieutenants with six years service, or less. Thereafter the increases are inadequate and will not show favorable comparison with positions in business particularly, but will probably be in excess of pay in the various professions up to and including twelve to fifteen years.

On the other hand the pay of officers of senior grade, Brigadier General and Colonel particularly, will have stood, for the former at $625, and for the latter at $600, from date of 30 years service onward. These officers are entitled, with War Department approval, to retire after 30 years service and some are permitted so to retire. If not permitted to retire, or not able to retire on account of financial difficulties (not able to secure a position in civil life) these officers go on giving their best to the service for the next ten or twelve years for what actually amounts to the difference between their retired pay (Earned Equity) and their actual pay, or in the case of a Brigadier General $3,000 a year and in case of a Colonel $2,700 a year. A Colonel retired after 30 years service draws the same pay as after 40 years of service.

Retired pay is or is not an earned equity—if it is an earned equity, after 30 years of active service, this equity should run for a definite period of years; after 40 years of service in common justice it should run for a proportionately longer period than for the thirty years of service. An officer who has served 40 years and who is retired for age at 64 may die within a year, his retired equity dies with him. If he be a Colonel or Brigadier General on retirement he has been giving of his best to the service for 10 years at $3,000 or $2,700 a year, over and above his equity in his retired pay. Whereas an officer retired after 30 years of service may live from 30 to 40 years and continue to draw this so-called earned retired pay for the period of his lifetime. But if retired pay be not an earned equity, earned pay withheld during one's years of service, call it a gratuity and be done with it. We shall then know that we have not earned it but that a generous Congress has granted us a gratuity sufficient to keep us from becoming a public charge during our life time, but the widow, if one is left, must still manage for herself as best she may.

I believe fully in promotion for all officers after a definite period of service in any particular grade without reference to the number in any grade and I believe that pay should be based on the rank held. There can, in my judgment, be no defense of a system which holds an officer in a junior grade for many years and at the same time attempts to equalize his status with an officer in the grade above him by giving him the pay of his senior. The duties and responsibilities of officers in the various grades do not parallel nor can they be made identical, hence pay alone will not compensate for the differences. We do not hear so much from senior officers about pay schedules, as, being older, hardened to service conditions and pessimistic as to securing changes, they do not complain about conditions which they have little or no hope of improving. A Colonel or even a Brigadier General may have one, two, three or more children under 21 years of age. These children are generally in boarding schools or in college, the officer, if his wife is living, gets an allowance for two rations, $36. This won't provide food for breakfast for the family for the month. If on detached service and away from a garrison, he gets $63.75 a month for rental, heat, light, water, etc. This will about secure him one room and a kitchenette in most cities. Yet he is supposed to dress and live and associate with people of means, make "Contacts" with business men and appear at the leading social affairs in the city where he happens for the time being to be on duty. He, on account of the rank he holds, is expected to represent the best the army has to offer. The War Department holds him responsible for making the best of his job, for being a creditable representative of the army and for upholding its best traditions. If he has children to support and to educate—in college as often happens—and has no income other than his pay which is generally the case, he must live either in some out of the way place, swallowed up in the masses, where no one with any social standing in the community will call on his family, or go hopelessly into debt to maintain an establishment which he can not afford. His wife must do her own housework, and his children are denied the social standing and associations to which they are entitled.

This question of adequate pay for the services, for all grades from the lowest to the highest, is capable of solution and demands serious study. Pay is mixed up with allowances and allowances do not apply equitably. They should be cut out clean, and pay based on grade. No other system is or can be equitable, but in the very nature of the case must be discriminatory, as families of army officers, like those in other professions, are not made up of a statutory number of children born at definite times and therefore with definite ages in a particular pay period.

The whole pay system as it stands today is not only inadequate to meet present living conditions but it is inequitable, discriminatory and unjust and demands correction.

COLONEL INFANTRY.

A CLOSE OBSERVER.

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

I WISH to use your paper as a medium through which I may express myself to members of Congress and other persons interested in legislation pertaining to the Army.

At the outset, I will say that my views are based on 30 years active service in the Army, during which time I have constantly been a close observer and have for many years actually experienced the conditions that I will speak of presently.

The subject I wish to discuss is quarters, fuel and light for married enlisted personnel and allowances for their children.

While Congress has justly and wisely provided for the children of officers it has completely overlooked the children of enlisted men. The same being true with regard to quarters. Provision has been made for officers and the three highest grades of noncommissioned officers, but not for married personnel below the first three grades (the enlisted personnel being divided into seven grades).

Under these conditions there are a great number of married men in the Army today whose families are existing in a state of poverty. And a great majority of these men are excellent soldiers. It is obvious that only a very few can hold one of the three highest grades, though there are many whose character and ability makes them eligible for those positions. The conditions of these men's families can well be pictured in your mind if you will consider for a moment these facts: the base pay of a Sergeant is $54.00 per month; a Corporal $42.00 per month; a First Class Private $30.00 per month and a Private $21.00 per month. Consider one of these men paying rent in town, providing food and clothing for his family, educating his children and keeping up the personal appearance of himself on the above wages. The state of poverty that these families suffer can not be denied. As a result of these conditions the married man drawing $54.00 per month manages to get along by depriving himself and family of many necessities of life. The $42.00, $30.00 and $21.00 per month men usually get so far in debt in trying to provide for their families that they lose their honor and standing in the community as upright citizens, thereby casting an ugly reflection on the uniform of the country.

The only question left is this. Has a man in the service of his country the right to enjoy the privileges of married life? Marriage is the natural state of man. It is a fundamental right and privilege that belongs to every man. Is a rich and powerful government like ours right and just when it deprives those who serve it and protect it most loyally of this privilege.

By granting an allowance of so much money per month for each child, Congress has justly recognized the fact that an officer in the service has a right to marry and rear children. These children upon entering society will be an asset to it. What has society to expect from the children of the enlisted personnel of the Army? What steps has Congress taken toward the welfare of these children? After all, isn't it the taxpayer's money that pays the Army? Do you believe that if the taxpayers had a vote on the matter they would discriminate between the children of officers and enlisted men? Hasn't the child of the enlisted man the same ratio to society as the child of the officer? Hasn't the man who chooses serving Uncle Sam as his life profession a right to marry and support his family with a moderate livelihood? Take the man who has entered the service as a single man and followed the profession for a number of years and becomes adapted to it and likes it, is it just and right to say to him when he asks for the privilege to marry "If you do you must bring up your children in poverty—or you can quit the service we only want you as a single man?"

If Congress would provide quarters, fuel and light for the married enlisted personnel of the Army and allow a reasonable amount of money for the support of each child as it does for officers, society would benefit greatly and thousands of wives and children would be lifted from the plane of poverty to a state of normal living. It would do much to increase the morale of the Army as a whole and would put into effect a law that would meet the unqualified approval of a great majority of our citizens. I have heard many citizens from all sections of the country express themselves on this subject and have not heard a single one adverse to it.

If any one interested in military legislation should happen to read this, I would certainly be glad to see his views either pro or con in an early issue of the Army and Navy Journal. If my views are wrong I am willing to be convinced. If they are right they should be enacted into law. Thousands of souls would be made happy and who would weep?

FACTS ARE EVIDENT

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

MUCH has been said in recent times about the inequalities and injustices existing in Army promotion, and many bills have been offered as remedies for these conditions. Let us now turn a moment to another proper question of inequalities and injustices now existing in one feature of longevity pay. The facts are so evident that one does not have to twist or distort them so as to arrive at a solution favorable to himself. Maybe, after some of our law-makers have had an opportunity to read the contents of the following paragraphs, they might propose a remedial measure to correct this feature in longevity pay to which this article refers, at the time their efforts are being put forth to correct conditions in Army promotion:

"There are many young officers in the Regular Army who, prior to their commission in the Regular Army, had served faithfully in the enlisted ranks of the National Guard. These young men, many of them, have had such technical educations at Universities and professional experience in civil life as to have been of great value to the work of the National Guard. Especially is this true in the Engineer and Artillery services. In their Guard service, they have always been conspicuously in the front, and, to them is due many a high figure of merit in target practice during annual encampments. It may be stated here that the writer was a qualified Master Gunner with the Coast Artillery National Guard, attended weekly drills with the utmost regularity and performed all the tasks required of his duties while on annual target practice.

"For these young men, the years of service with the National Guard seemed to have been overlooked or given no consideration when it came to applying these years of service toward longevity pay in the Regular Army.

"In accordance with paragraph 1. b.

A. R. 35-1680, former National Guard Officers who are now officers of the Regular Army before June 30, 1922, are entitled to 75% of 'all other periods of time, etc.' in computing longevity pay.

"Also it is known that former enlisted men of the Regular Army who now hold commissions in the Regular Army are entitled to count all their previous enlisted service in the Regular Army toward longevity pay.

"It would seem only fair and just in consideration of the preceding paragraphs, that 75% of 'all other periods of time, etc.' served in the enlisted ranks of the National Guard should likewise be made applicable toward the longevity pay in case of Regular Army Officers who once served in the enlisted ranks of the Militia or the National Guard."

X-N-LISTED.

AN ISSUE FOUND

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

NOW that you have found an issue in which every one in the service can be interested, not to mention agreed, let us all assert ourselves openly, and see if it will get results.

There seems to be no question among ourselves that the Service pay is inadequate. We must convince others. There may be isolated cases, when officers without outside incomes carry on without struggling, but certainly they are few. We know that the large majority of us are forced to spend a lot of the government's time, and all of our own watching the budget waver and quiver.

We are all men with a specialized education. We have devoted the best years of our lives to attaining that efficiency, that ability, and that specialized education that is demanded of us. True, there may be a few that are not up to requirements, but what huge organization is without them? Certainly the large majority of us are up to snuff. Witness the attainments with the tools at hand.

Considering all this, and the fact that our lives and education fit us for nothing in civilian life, it would seem only just that we be relieved of financial worry, if nothing else. We are required to keep up an appearance at all times, and act as representatives of our Government at every appearance. Certainly the idea of Congress in 1908 was to place the officers of the Army and Navy in a position where their lives could be devoted to their duties and responsibilities with nothing to constantly worry them. They could live as gentlemen and be representative of the Government with little or no embarrassment.

To be more specific, I am a First Lieutenant. In the last three years I have not failed to spend more than my pay. Before that time I lived on a Post when, by watching the check book and doing little or nothing in a novel way, I could carry on. Then I was ordered to school, where I found I must live in town. It was necessary to purchase some furniture. Not much, but some. I had to provide transportation to school each day. Finally my furniture was paid for, but in order to get to my next station, I was forced to borrow money.

Upon arrival at my new assignment, an R. O. T. C. task, I found it was one with no extra pay. Woe is me. I took a house in the part of town that, as I was told by the P. M. S. and T. was fit for an officer's residence. It cost $70 month, coal $10 a month, gas and electricity $10 more. Garbage, ice, laundry, telephone, and similar bills arrive every month. The furniture had to be augmented. A range, a refrigerator were necessary. A Liberty Bond, my wife owned, finally disappeared. There isn't any more. The bills keep coming just the same.

My wife is a good soldier. She works and cleans house with the best of them. I won't have her doing the laundry, and I don't want to do it myself. Will it come to that? We never go to the movies. People ask why we don't join the country club. We just laugh. Perfectly absurd when you have children. One can always fall back on that.

And yet they have changed the blue dress blouse so that it is no longer. Something is wrong somewhere. I can't order any blues unless I am suddenly promoted two grades, and preferably three. If I do, I will get cashiered, for I can't pay for them. Of course where I am now I don't have to get them yet, but how about my next post? How about next year?

In other words, let's forget about new styles in uniforms. It's so misleading. Let's forget about promotion, just camouflage for more money. Let's everybody get together and push for a new pay bill. I understand that practically no one in Congress will vote against it, if it is presented. It is said to be acknowledged on "the hill" that the services are under paid. Let's present our troubles to the people who can help us, and see what happens. The Army and Navy Journal offers its help, so let us all help and perhaps we can get it if we all ask for it.

TEAMWORK.

"A RANK INJUSTICE."

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

IN REFERENCE to the subject of pay, I am a colonel of thirty year's service, and cite the following as a matter of rank injustice to officers of my length of service under the present law.

1. I had occasion to stop in New York while en route to Panama, and in the same hotel were other officers of much junior grade who were occupying quarters pending the sailing of a transport. En route to Panama, quarters were occupied on the transport. It was possible to collect commutation of quarters during that period. To my amazement, I found that under the present law, a captain and major, stopping at the hotel with me in New York, were reimbursed $4.00 a day for quarters, while my reimbursement was $2.13. The same thing occurred in the reimbursement for travel on the transport. A captain, major and lieutenant colonel received reimbursement at the rate of $4.00 while a colonel on the same boat received reimbursement at the rate of $2.13 per day. (1923.)

2. I learn that a major in the flying service was receiving the highest pay of any officer in this vicinity. It appears to me that this condition is a direct result of the present law; but in the interest of economy and justice, it would appear that the pay for each branch should be the same. If for any reason the Government considers one undergoes greater risk than another, and desires to reimburse them for such risk, it would be in the interest of discipline and good feeling throughout the service, for the excess now paid under the present law to be invested in War Risk Insurance, the increase constituting the premiums to be paid.

3. The increase of pay to the flying service, as now given, simply means that the living officer has more funds than other officers of his grade in other branches, and he receives no protection whatever for his family who must remain behind if he be killed in flight. In many cases, this excess money results in the undoing of officers, and even perhaps is the reason for accidents.

4. I strongly recommend:

(a) The modification of the present law that will avoid any discrimination against senior officers in the matter of commutation of quarters.

(b) That aviation officers in flying status, receive the same pay as other officers of like grade, plus a War Risk premium.

(c) That the increment in their pay now established by Congress be utilized to purchase War Risk insurance for the benefit of their heirs.

(d) That pay be based upon grades and responsibility. The base pay for same grade in all services to be equal.

(e) That retired pay be increased so as to give officers upon retirement 75 per cent of the amount paid them at time of retirement including pay proper, allowance for commutation of quarters and rations.

5. The original law states the intention of Congress of giving the retired officer, after completing his service, 75 per cent of his pay at date of retirement. The law as now interpreted gives him only 55 per cent.

COLONEL, INFANTRY.

"DEBIT ON LEDGER."

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

IN RESPONSE to your request that officers write to your publication any data that might be pertinent to the present pay situation in the services, I take the present occasion to submit some figures gathered from my own personal experience, since coming on my present detail.

To begin with, the detail referred to is duty with the Organized Reserves, with station in the Twin Cities. This places me on the so-called D. O. L. which, I was once informed, was an abbreviation for Detached Officers List. During the last three or four years, I have been reluctantly forced to the conclusion that the letters should be entered as "Debit on Ledger." The pay period in which I find myself, calls for pay and rations amounting to $276 per month, if on duty with troops, and stationed at a regular army post. Not being on duty with troops, and having to find quarters in a large city, an additional allowance of $80 is made.

The eighty dollars covers my budget for items ordinary provided on a post, as follows:

Rent of quarters and garage, $85; refrigeration, $3.50; gas and electricity, $6.50; coal, $15; telephone, $4.25; commutation, $80; to balance (red), $34.25; total $114.25. In other words, this D. O. L. assignment penalizes me $34.25 per month, or rather, I would be that much better off financially, if on duty at a post.

That would not be so bad, but it is not quite the whole story. It gets a little worse during the summer, and just how much worse it is difficult to compute exactly. As an index, however, allow me to cite my schedule for last summer. During the month of May, I was out for about two weeks all told, on a C. M. T. C. recruitment trip. This had to be made on a mileage basis, and the territory assigned to me was largely cursed with land grant railroads. The trip had to be made by auto, as the rail connections were so bad, that it would have taken me up till the present moment to complete the itinerary by train. Over and above the mileage I received, I have estimated that the trip cost me fifty dollars personally. From the middle of June till the middle of July, I was on duty at a Reserve Officers Camp at Sparta, Wis. From there I went directly to Ft. Lincoln, N. D. where I remained until September 1, at a C. M. T. C. camp. In September I made a so-called contact trip among the Reserve Officers in my territory, covering Minnesota and North Dakota by auto (my own). That was not so bad. I came within $25 of breaking even on that trip. But the point that I wish to make here is, that there are no provisions for taking care of an officer's family at the summer camps, the rent, etc., continues at the home station, and it means the keeping up of two separate establishments. It is to be doubted if two can live as cheaply as one, under any circumstances, but most certainly not when the two concerned have to live in different states.

Of the 12,000 officers in the regular army only about 3,500 are on duty with troops. That must mean that nearly 70 per cent are carried on the D. O. L. and I assume that their respective situations must be comparable, in some degree at least, to mine. From that it would seem that payment of commutation must be the rule nowadays, rather than the exception, as formerly.

In view of the above cited facts, my conclusion is that there should be a flat rate of pay, embracing the three components that now go to make up the total; that there should be a periodical increase for years of service (fogies) as at present; that increased rank, responsibility and pay should go hand in hand, and that the present rate is inadequate by about 50 per cent.

ASKS FOR NOISE.

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

I AM inclosing personal check for four dollars for subscription for Journal. In this letter I ask you to make a big noise to attract our Congress to action on H. R. 2668, Mr. James readjustment allowances retired enlisted men, etc.

The plan now in use results in a real injustice which has existed long, and will continue until action is obtained to correct. Compared to other things Congress has to consider, this is so small that it seems difficult to get so many busy men to give their attention to so small a matter long enough to get desired results.

The injustice is clear, and acknowledged sincerely, by military authorities as, doubtless, it is by all Congressmen having knowledge of it. The anticipated legislation for the services is so broad and difficult to present, and so much attention will be required by every one concerned to direct its progress, that the "retired adjustment" noted would not fare well tacked on the big bill. It is more safe alone, if we can get it started; and in that case, if voted upon, would doubtless pass. If it is included in the big bill and that fails to pass, or get action our injustice would continue as before.

So please do all you can reasonably do, to get action on H. R. 2668.

A UNIFORM PROBLEM

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

ENCLOSED herewith check for four dollars for renewal of subscription. I shall at the same time express my opinion on the pay problem, as I doubt if there is any more typical illustrative reason why the pay of junior Army officers should be increased than my experience in the past year. I left the Philippine Islands Feb. 15, 1928, having been stationed there two and one-half years. Of course, I had Hongkong Khaki and whites for uniforms which will now deteriorate or go out of style before being again used, as my khaki outfits I purchased on the border in 1919 and 1920. During my stay in the Philippines the styles on all uniforms, collars, etc., overcoats were changed so that on my arrival in the States in this climate it was the same as just joining the service. This is not taking into consideration my wife's and three children's outfits in moving from a torrid to a frigid zone. At the same time we moved from out of the Army into a detail in a civil community and had to buy everything from a kitchen stove to electric light bulbs, not counting such minor incidentals as dining room furniture and bed room, etc. We had hitherto put the children in Q. M. beds. All our furniture, which was meager, fell to pieces in the tropics. Without going into details this move cost us $700 cold cash. Where did we get it? Borrowed, of course. We are now supposed to represent the Army, and no junior officer can afford to rent a house, pay coal bills, electricity, telephone, buy rakes, shovels, on $80 a month in this climate. Our coal bill is more than $35 a month. I could write ten pages like this, but hope I have shown you that we appreciate what you are doing.

CAPT. JAY.

RETIRED PAY.

Editor, Army and Navy Journal:

IN REFERENCE to the various bills for an increase or adjustment of the pay of Army Officers, permit me to say that it is beyond my comprehension why Congress increased the pay of active officers in 1922 and left out the retired officers. The retired officers had served their country well and most faithfully while able and many of them like myself volunteered and were assigned to duty during the World War and served well and faithfully till its close. Why should they be discriminated against?

I would suggest that Congress enact as follows: "That the pay of all Officers of the Army, active and retired, is hereby increased 30 per cent over and above the pay schedule of 1908." Of course, it is well known that all the officers and employees of the Federal Government have had their pay increased from 33 per cent to 100 per cent since the year of 1908. They should be advanced one grade on the retired list.

I. C. to Have War Games

THE year's schedule at the Army Industrial College will be brought to a close with a "Procurement War Game" to be played from June 18 to 21. The organization and functions of the Office of the Assistant Secretary of War on M day will be as given in Unit Plan, Office of the Assistant Secretary of War, 1928. Current Procurement activities and duties are merged with those of the Planning Branch.

Supply Branches will not take part.

The War Game will be held in the Conference Room of the Army Industrial College. The forenoons will be devoted to the assignments of situations and to the presentation and discussion of solutions. The afternoons will be devoted to the preparation of solutions of situations assigned to the several Divisions and Sections for action.

The following initial assumptions will govern:

(a) The Game represents the early stages of the war; (b) the International political situation has been getting increasingly strained for the past 90 days, resulting in a declaration of war by the United States on June 17, 1929. (Announcement will be made at the first session as to the particular situation involved in the War Game.); (c) M-day is June 18, 1929; (d) a maximum effort is assumed and the Basic Mobilization Plan is put into effect; (e) on the morning of June 18, 1929, The President declared an emergency existed, thus authorizing open market purchases, and the Assistant Secretary of War ordered that Supply Branches proceed to procure their requirements according to present War Procurement Plans; (f) the following Bills of the War Department, as given in Legislative Annex, War Department Mobilization Plan, 1924, were submitted to Congress and became laws effective June 18, 1929:

(1) A bill to increase temporarily the strength of the Army of the U. S.; (2) A bill to provide for the registration and draft of the manhood of the nation; (3) A bill to provide for control and censorship of communications in time of war on national emergency; (4) A bill to provide for the control of resources, etc., and for the stabilization of prices; (5) A bill to provide for the suspension of operation of certain laws which restrict or impede procurement activities of the government; (6) A bill to authorize the President to utilize appropriated funds upon the declaration of an emergency.

(g) There will be no War Industries Board or other industrial control agencies in existence unless set up during the progress of the War Game; (h) Office space necessary for the expansion of the office of the Assistant Secretary of War is available; (i) Sea lanes are open according to latest information.

Personnel will be assigned as follows: (The numbers given refer to War Organization Chart in Unit Plan, Office of the Assistant Secretary of War, 1928.)

1. Director of Procurement.—Faculty, A. I. C.

Engr. Claims Flying Pay

Capt. Bernard Smith, C. E., P. S., assigned to the 14th Engineers at Ft. William McKinley, P. I., has filed suit in the U. S. Court of Claims for $785.84 flying pay.

The plaintiff was ordered to duty with the Department Engineer, Manila, as topographical inspector for the survey season of 1927-28, and from November, 1927, to May, 1928, his duties involved regular and frequent flying.

He claims under the Act of June 4, 1920 (41 Statutes 768), creating the Air Service and providing 50 per cent additional pay for duty requiring regular and frequent participation in air flights, and the Act of June 10, 1922 (42 Statutes 724), specifying that the above additional pay shall be allowed to an officer of any branch, taking part in such flight when ordered by proper authority to do so.

Plaintiff states that he did not present his claim to the General Accounting Office because the War Department's decision denying the claim was based on a Comptroller General's decision in the same premises.

Samuel T. Ansell is attorney for the plaintiff.

Conferences on "The Aeronautical Industry," "Requirements in Items Vital for Combat," and "Routing Material from the Factory to the Troops," will be held on June 17.

Maj. Gen. G. S. Gibbs, the Chief Signal Officer, will deliver an address at the graduating exercises on June 22.

Ordnance Digest for May

MAY activities of the Infantry and Aircraft Division were published by the Ordnance Department on June 5th. Ammunition developments are:

The manufacture of the ammunition for the National Matches of 1929 has been completed. Test firings to date have given excellent results. The reports so far received from teams firing this ammunition indicate that it gives the same degree of accuracy as the 1925 type.

The manufacture of the Palma Match ammunition for 1929 has been completed. This will be shipped to Camp Perry as soon as practicable after July 1st.

All of the International Match ammunition has been completed and a considerable part of it has been utilized by the candidates for the International Match Team at Quantico. The accuracy records were made by firing samples from each box of International Match ammunition and nine boxes giving the best results will be taken abroad with the Team. All of the International Match rifles are being targeted with this type of ammunition. In the firings at Quantico excellent results have been obtained to date and the members of the Team will be selected upon completion of the competitive tryouts on June 7, 1929.

A total of 150,000 rounds of caliber .276 ammunition of the type having the Monel metal primer has been shipped to the Aberdeen Proving Ground for this test.

Bids were opened a few days ago on the circular proposal for 1,500,000 rounds of Krag ammunition, caliber .30 ball, Model 1898, for sale purposes to the Director of Civilian Marksmanship. This ammunition will have the non-corrosive primer. Awards were made as follows: 900,000 rounds to the Remington Arms Company and 600,000 rounds to the Western Cartridge Company.

There are no new developments in the case of semi-automatic rifles. It is anticipated that the Pedersen and Garand types will be ready for the competitive test scheduled for July 1, 1929.

Ten of the International Match rifles are being equipped with Cutts compensators for tryout at Quantico, Va. In case these compensators prove satisfactory to the shooters they will be utilized on the rifles during the matches in Sweden.

Five of the modified caliber .30 Model 1918 Browning aircraft machine guns have been shipped from Springfield Armory to Aberdeen Proving Ground. Ten more of these machine guns are being modified and will be shipped about June 10th to the Proving Ground for test with caliber .30 M1 ammunition.

An order has been placed with Springfield Armory for the manufacture of forty rounds counters for the caliber .30 Browning aircraft machine gun.

Production is under way for all equipment ordered for the 1929 Anti-Aircraft Exercises. A conference will be held at an early date between representatives of Aberdeen Proving Ground and Frankford Arsenal on the new machine gun data computer being designed at the latter place.

A new telescopic sight is being developed for use with caliber .50 anti-aircraft machine guns.

A multiple mount of the portable type is being built at Watertown Arsenal and it is anticipated it will be completed on or about September 1st.

Two recoil cradles for the caliber .50 machine gun mounted on the anti-aircraft tripod are being procured under circular proposal on account of the urgency of other work at Springfield Armory.

Explain N. G. Saddle Share

The following schedules have been announced for the distribution of the Phillips pack saddle made standard this year:

Priority A—Pack saddles and their accessories sufficient to equip Cavalry units with 50 per cent of their peace-time strength of machine-gun ammunition and machine rifle packs is being provided in part from funds for the fiscal year 1929-30; project to be completed from the funds to be made available for the fiscal year 1923.

Priority B—When Priority A has been completed, the supply of troop packs will be given consideration with a view to equipping the National Guard with these on a similar basis—50 per cent of peace requirements. This second project will probably start in 1931.

National Guard

Baltimore (Special).—Battery C, 110th F. A., Pikesville, leads the Regiment in enlisted attendance at drill for May, with an average of 80.43 per cent of enrolled strength. The 1st is the leading Battalion, with 74.81 per cent. Regimental average, 64.03.

In the 5th Infantry, Baltimore, the Band Section, Service Company, leads for the month, with 84.88 per cent. The Regimental average is 57.05.

For the annual field training, the 58th Brigade Headquarters, the State Staff and State Detachment, are at Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., July 6-August 4; the 1st Infantry, July 6-20; the 5th Infantry, July 21-August 4; the Headquarters Company, 58th Brigade, July 21-August 4; the Staff, 29th Division, and the 1st Separate Company, August 11-25. The 110th Field Artillery is at Tobyhanna, Pa., July 20-August 3; and the 104th Medical Regiment, at Carlisle Barracks July 27-August 10.

Brig. Gen. M. A. Reckord has been designated by the Governor to command Camp Albert C. Ritchie, July 6-August 4.

Baltimore (Special).—Brig. Gen. M. A. Reckord is entertaining the field officers, and the acting field officers, of the 5th Infantry, and two Regular Army instructors, Maryland National Guard, at an informal luncheon at the Baltimore Club, this Saturday afternoon, June 8.

Maj. W. E. Black, Maj. J. G. Knight, and Maj. Ralph Hutchins, 5th Infantry, were guests of the officers of the Regiment at a farewell dinner at the Fifth Regiment Armory, Baltimore, Saturday evening, June 1. Maj. Black is changing his residence to Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, and the officers of his Battalion presented him a watch as a token of esteem. Maj. Knight and Maj. Hutchins are transferred to the State Staff.

Company D, 1st Infantry, Belair, recently enlisted 19 men within three weeks, as a result of intensive recruiting. On Saturday evening, the 1st inst., the Company demonstrated an attack upon a machine gun nest; and on the preceding Saturday, three airplanes of the 104th Observation Squadron, Logan Field, participated in the Company's program for the day. The community responded liberally, in financing and supporting the work of the Company, and the organization benefitted accordingly.

Company E, 121st Engineers, D. C. N. G., recently underwent a day's demolition training at Camp Simms. They dug five holes in a gravel hillside, filled them with 18 one-half-pound blocks of TNT, and loosened up about 150 tons of gravel which was used for filling around the new storage building erected on the range property.

Crpl. B. C. Bradshaw, who attended the demolition specialists' school at Camp Albert C. Ritchie last summer, was in charge of the priming and blasting.

The chief of the Militia Bureau has called attention to the fact that a number of disallowances in the accounts of finance offices have been made by the general accounting office, due to the fact that personnel of the National Guard on duty at camps as a part of advance or rear detachments or supply detachments when their units were not present, have also been credited with attendance for pay at armory drills. This practice was declared to be distinctly contrary to law and regulations in that no personnel is entitled to armory drill pay for periods during which it has or will receive active duty pay. It was directed that special attention be given this matter regarding personnel on advance or rear detachment duty during field training periods.

Figures on C. M. T. C.

MAY 31st figures on C. M. T. C. enrollment for the nine Corps Areas, as shown by a report from The Adjutant General's office, were: 4th—7,941; 2nd—7,933; 3rd—6,276; 5th—5,298; 6th—5,268; 1st—4,863; 7th—4,465; 8th—3,790; 9th—2,763.

Infantry Graduates

Fort Benning (Special).—A total of 234 officers were graduated from the Infantry School here June 11 with exercises held in the Main Theater. The principal address was by Brig. Gen. Campbell King, commandant of the school. A letter of commendation to the graduates from Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, was read.

The invocation was by Chaplain Thomas L. McKenna and the benediction by Chaplain John R. Wright.

ARMY POLOISTS TAKE P. I. CUP

The Army Polo Team from Department Headquarters on June 5 won the Far East Circuit Cup symbolical of the Polo championship of the Philippine Islands and the Orient, defeating the Manila Polo Club by the score of six goals to five, according to a cable received by the War Department from Maj. Gen. D. MacArthur, commanding the Philippine Department.

Aeronautical Notes

Mitchel Field (Special).—The radio beacon tower has just been completed, as has most of the building, and the generator has just been moved in under cover. If the beacon signals are on the wave-length band, those officers on the post owning radios will have the pleasure of trying to tune out the "N" signal of the beacon from the commercial concert programs, while the non-commissioned officers living on the other end of the post will have an equally interesting experience with the "A" signal. The operators of the radio sets in the Squadron Barrack Dayrooms, being right on the New York-Washington line, will have the center "T" signal to contend with.

Senator Hiram Bingham, president of the National Aeronautic Association, made the following announcement:

"Through the June issue of The Aeronautic Review, the official publication of the National Aeronautic Association, which is now being distributed to the membership, the Association formally launches a movement for the establishment of private flying clubs throughout the country.

"The Association is very materially assisted in this important work by a grant of $12,000 from the Daniel Guggenheim Fund for the Promotion of Aeronautics, Inc., which has been made available to the Association through Harry F. Guggenheim, president of the Fund.

"As a result of negotiations, it now is possible for a flying club formed under the N. A. A. Flying Club plan and holding a charter from the N. A. A., to receive insurance against the loss of the plane, and against property liability, property damage and passenger liability. Thus the life of the club is prolonged and their assets are not wiped out if a plane should be lost through misfortune."

C of 65th Wins Cup

Fort Randolph, C. Z. (Special).—Battery "C" of the 65th Coast Artillery is now the proud possessor of the commanding general's trophy, a silver loving cup, for the best record of the year in anti-aircraft gunnery in the Panama Canal Department which was presented during a review held at Fort Randolph in honor of Col. R. E. Wiley, harbor defense commander.

Lt. Col. Brinton, regimental commander of the 65th Coast Artillery, accompanied Col. Wiley in the inspection at Fort Randolph and was present at the presentation of the commanding general's trophy. Battery "C," which won the loving cup, is commanded by Capt. Bryan L. Milburn.

Cincinnati R. O. A. Encamp

Ft. Thomas (Special).—Reserve officers in Cincinnati and vicinity held an enjoyable and instructive contact camp here on June 8 and 9. The work started with a demonstration by the 10th Infantry of a regiment in attack. Col. W. H. Waldron, 10th Infantry, was in immediate personal charge, and was assisted by Lt. Col. Richard Wetherill, 10th Infantry. Lt. Col. L. S. Ryan, F. A., U. S. A., had charge of the Reserve Officers. Blank ammunition was employed by the men, and the attack culminated in a bayonet charge across the polo field.

After a formal guardmounting the annual meeting and election of officers of Cincinnati Chapter, Reserve Officers' Association was held. Capt. Rudolph Ruzicka, Q. M.-Res., was chosen president to succeed Maj. T. B. Morris, Eng. Res., and Maj. J. R. Stewart, Eng. Res., vice-president. Col. Waldron addressed the meeting and was given a rising vote of thanks. He leaves Fort Thomas the latter part of the month to become Chief of Staff at Columbus.

Lt. Col. R. Wetherill, 10th Infantry, who will command the post during the interregnum between Col. Waldron and Col. F. S. Young, then addressed the officers.

The weather, which had been threatening, turned out to be fine, and over a hundred officers registered their attendance. On the 9th Col. Waldron personally conducted a terrain exercise illustrating a battalion of infantry in the defense, and described in detail the organization of the ground.

Special work in gunnery for the field artillery officers was conducted by Capt. W. M. Vance, F. A. Res., and instruction given in lateral fire.

COL. BROWN VISITS

Ft. Benjamin Harrison (Special).—Col. O. G. Brown, 5th Corps Area surgeon, visited the post recently to inspect post sanitation and the health of the command. He declared himself well pleased with the conditions he found. He was the guest of Lt. Col. and Mrs. C. R. Snyder during his stay.

Retirement of Scouts Sought

A BILL that would provide for the retirement of enlisted men of the Philippine Scouts was introduced this week in the Senate. The bill provides that when an enlisted man shall have served for 30 years either in the Army (including the Philippine Scouts), Navy, or Marine Corps, shall, upon making application to the President, be placed upon the retired list, with 75 per centum of the pay and allowances that he is receiving at the time of retirement. The allowances would be six dollars and thirty-five cents per month in lieu of rations and clothing, and four dollars and fifteen cents per month in lieu of quarters, fuel and light. In computing the necessary 30 years' time all service in the Army (including the Philippine Scouts), Navy, and Marine Corps, would be credited.

The letter of transmittal from the Secretary of War accompanying this bill, stated:

The effect of the proposed legislation will be to give enlisted men of the Philippine Scouts the right of retirement on completion of 30 years' service that is now provided for other enlisted men of the United States Army.

The Commanding General, Philippine Department, states that fourteen of these men will complete 30 years' service in the fiscal year 1930, some of them as early as Nov., 1929. The Adjutant General estimates that this list will have increased to about 300 in the fiscal year 1932, and that the maximum number at any time will be about 600. The Chief of Finance estimates the cost of this list as $6,039 for the fiscal year 1930, increasing gradually thereafter until 1936, when an annual average of $272,925 for the ensuing years will be reached.

The proposed legislation should be enacted into law for the following reasons, the letter stated:

a. The enlistment of Filipinos for service in the Army and their organization as scouts has been authorized by law since 1901.

b. Their status is analogous to that of enlisted men of the Regular Army, and it seems suitable that they should have similar rights of retirement, that is, retirement after completion of 30 years' service with 75 per centum of their active pay and a definite allowance in lieu of rations, clothing, quarters, fuel and light.

c. As the first of these scouts will complete 30 years' service in November of 1929, they are quite interested in knowing whether or not they are to be accorded this right of retirement.

d. Congress has authorized the retirement of officers of the Philippine Scouts. (41 Stat. 770 and 42 stat. 632).

If the Committee on Military Affairs wishes to have hearings upon the proposed legislation, the following named officers are designated to appear before

R. O. A. Has Pistol Program

AS a result of resolutions adopted at its recent convention, the Reserve Officers' Association of the United States is planning to perfect its members in the construction, care and use of the pistol.

Competitions will be held within and between chapters and departments for local, State, and national championships. The interest of manufacturers of arms and ammunition will be enlisted in the plan.

Assistant Secretary of War Hurley, upon being apprised by Col. Walter C. Cole, president of the Association, of this program, wrote:

"It gives me a great deal of pleasure to support this effort of the Reserve Officers' Association and I shall cooperate to the fullest extent allowed by law and regulations. The pistol is the person field weapon of the officer. His knowledge of it and his skill in its use are essential factors in his own military training.

"It is practicable to obtain without great difficulty safe pistol ranges convenient to centers of large populations where such facilities can be utilized by Reserve Officers without undue encroachment upon their vocations and other activities. Reserve Officers are necessarily limited in their practical military work, which is as much a part of the training of an Army officer as is the theoretical, and I am glad to see this added effort to correct this. I regret that the limited funds at the disposal of the War Department will not permit any change in the present allowance of ammunition and weapons.

"It is a common belief that shooting ability is instinctive, that it is born in one without training. That is not so. The novice or the untrained man instinctively does the wrong thing in shooting and, without a coach, or at least a written guide, his practice merely fixes bad habits and may actually prevent progress. By practice in accordance with proper principles, anyone who has the eyesight and physique required of officers or soldiers can learn to shoot in a very short time.

your committee: Maj. John B. Anderson, General Staff; and Capt. L. P. Worrall, Finance Department.

The Director of the Bureau of the Budget has been consulted and advises that this proposed legislation is not in conflict with the financial program of the President.

FILM covers teeth

—it dulls them—it destroys them

WINNING smiles depend on glorious white teeth—and teeth like that depend on freedom from what dentists know as film.

You can feel film with your tongue—a slippery, viscous coating. It clings to teeth and gets into crevices and stays. It absorbs stains from food and smoking to turn white teeth "off color" and cloud their brilliance.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it, and they, plus tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

To remove film dentists prescribe the film-removing dentifrice, Pepsodent.

West Point (Special)—After a four-day pitching contest the post Cavalry defeated the Engineers on June 9 by 7-1.

BOSTON TO FORT MONROE VIA NEW YORK

Some time ago an officer of the C. A. C. en route to Fort Monroe to school from Boston ran over a drunk who staggered out from behind a passing car in the suburbs of New York. He had mailed an application for full coverage to us before leaving Boston.

We received telegraphic notice of the accident before his application for insurance was received and notified our New York attorneys. His protection dated from postmark on his application.

The officer proceeded on his way and took no further notice of the matter. We closed the case by compromise and had the suit withdrawn, knowing that juries usually hold the car owner to blame when a pedestrian is injured, no matter what the circumstances of the case may prove to be.

Amateur Status Clarified

RECENTLY the War Department took up with the Amateur Athletic Union the question of certification of soldier amateur athletes entering meets conducted by or under a sanction of that organization.

Following is an extract from the reply received by the Department from the secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U.:

"You are correct in your belief that the certificates of Commanding Officers will be accepted by the Amateur Athletic Union in lieu of registration, when the applicants are soldiers in the Army, and such commanding officers will be held responsible for the men they certify to be amateurs."

Under this ruling it is not necessary for a soldier to register with the A. A. U. in order to compete in an open meet sanctioned by that organization, if the soldier's commanding officer of his athletic officer can certify as to the amateur status of the applicant.

SPORTS AT FT. SNELLING.

Ft. Snelling (Special)—Baseball teams have nearly completed their inter-company schedule, with three of the teams to enter the playoff for the post championship determined. Headquarters Company, 3rd Infantry, and Company M will represent League "A" in the playoff, and Company I, 3rd Infantry, winner of first place in League "B," will be the third team.

Headquarters Company, 3rd Infantry, finished its schedule in kittenball in League "A" undefeated. Company G did likewise in League "B." These two teams and the winners of the second place will enter the playoff for the Fort Snelling kittenball championship. Company A ended second in League "A." In League "B," Battery F, 18th Field Artillery, and Company L, 3rd Infantry, tied for second place. After Company L and the artillerymen decide their tie, arrangements will be made for the championship playoff.

Fort Snelling defeated Minneapolis and St. Paul in the official opening of the Polo Season and won back the Fulton Cup, emblematic of the Twin City championship, which had been held by Minneapolis for a year. The post team, led by Capt. J. A. Boyers, displayed the best team work and piled up five goals to two against Minneapolis, and four goals to none for St. Paul in three chukkers of play against each team. The army players were Capt. J. A. Boyers, Inf., Capt. R. T. Seymour, V. C., Lt. F. J. Spettel, Inf., and Lt. J. Fish, Inf.

G OF 26TH SCORES.

Company "G," 26th Infantry, has for the second consecutive year won the annual competition for the Canadian Machine Gun Battalion Cup. The basis used in awarding the trophy was the organization obtaining the highest aggregate rating, in close order drill, arms qualifications, condition of barracks, and appearance of men.

SLOCUM DOMINIES MAKE HOLES

Ft. Slocum (Special)—Chaplain S. B. Knowles and C. W. Reynolds have been thus far the only golfers at this post to make a hole in one. Chaplain Reynolds having accomplished the feat upon the opening of the new course this year. Officers and men have taken to golf at Ft. Slocum with surprising enthusiasm.

AWARDS PRESENTED

West Point (Special)—Depicting the importance of athletics at the U. S. Military Academy here, an athletic review with the entire Corps of Cadets in the athletic uniforms of 18 different sports was the feature of Tuesday's graduation week exercises.

Each group was commended by the cadet captain of the sport who, after the Corps was formed on the parade ground, marched to the "front and center" to receive the letters, medals and other awards won by members of his team. These marks of athletic distinction were presented by Maj. Gen. William R. Smith, superintendent of the Military Academy. The cadet athletic leaders then formed as the staff of Gen. Smith and reviewed the Corps of Cadets.

Special awards presented by Gen. Smith were:

Cadet B. D. Rindlamb, Rochester, N. Y., as First Captain receiving the Pershing Sword and as the cadet excelling in military efficiency the Sons of the American Revolution Trophy.

Other awards were:

The Bankers' Trophy to the cadet excelling in intramural athletics during the year was won by Company B.

MARINE TEAM LEAVES

The only defeat in their New England tour was suffered by the Marine Corps Baseball Team on June 12th, at the hands of Harvard University. The score was 9-7. Smith and Kidd pitched for the Marines, Derr catching.

Three sensational wins were chalked up by the Leathernecks in the week preceding this game. On June 5, they defeated Bates College, Lewiston, Me., 6-3. Freeman, of the Marines, made two homers. Batteries were Kidd and Derr. The following day they won over the James A. Roche School, of Everett, Mass., by a 4-0 score, Kidd fanning 18. Cather caught in this game. On June 10, in one of their most exciting games of the season, the Marines lowered Boston College's colors, 5-2; batteries, Kidd and Derr.

Arrangements were made this week for the Marine Corps nine to play a picked Baltimore team, for the benefit of the Baltimore Firemen's Fund at an undetermined date in the near future.

SPEAKING
SPORTS

NAVY is thought to have the strongest track team in the South Atlantic meet today. Midshipmen to participate include: Rodgers, MacKenzie, and Johnson in the sprints; Games, Bisson, and Thorn in the mile; Briner, Tisdale, and Webb in the half-mile; and Davis in the three-mile.

Both Academies hope for the best when sports reconciliation is discussed, but both have written up next year's lacrosse schedules without blank dates. What teams will be celebrants of the re-union?

Graduation has cut swaths in both Army and Navy talent this year, 76 lettermen from West Point and 53 from Annapolis having completed their studies. Both football teams lose heavily. Army loses Allan, Elias, Hall, Hammack, Lynch, Nave, Pearson, Sprague, and Wimer. Navy loses Capt. Burke, Wilson, Gies, Hardin, Woerner, Miller, and Morse. This year's Plebe material had better be good.

In spring sports, for instance, the Navy athletes will have this mark to shoot at: 10 out of 15 baseball victories, a clean sweep of nine games in lacrosse, four out of six in track, and eight out of eleven in tennis. That's what Varsity teams did this year. The Junior Varsity crew won all its contests this year, which augurs well for next year's Varsity.

CAV. WINS IN RIFLE UPSET. Ft. Huachuca (Special)—The rifle team of the 10th Cavalry team recently beat the Arizona National Guard A team to win the Roskrige Trophy and the State Championship. Regulars were not thought to have a look in, but forged ahead for a two-point advantage when firing ended.

Coe Midwest Rifle Champs. Cedar Rapids (Special)—The R. O. T. C. rifle team of Coe College recently defeated 68 leading colleges and universities of the Middle West at the annual William Randolph Hearst indoor shoot. The members of the team are: E. F. Warner, C. Shepard, Capt. C. Boles, F. Trimble and A. Hasek.

OBITUARIES

Announcement of deaths should be addressed to Editorial Office, Army and Navy Journal, Architects Building, Washington, D. C.

THE following Resolution on the death of Rt. Rev. Charles H. Brent was adopted by the General Committee on Army and Navy Chaplains in session May 21, 1929:

"RESOLVED: that in the death of Bishop Charles H. Brent the General Committee on Army and Navy Chaplains has suffered the loss of one of its most loyal members. He was one of the original group constituting this body appointed in 1917, and continued his connection through the remainder of his life. Because of his deep interest in Christian unity, as well as his abiding patriotism, he was glad to serve on this Committee, and through the years gave advice and assistance in many ways.

"As Senior Chaplain of the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War Bishop Brent rendered service of primary importance, and this brought him many high honors, including the Distinguished Service Medal. This experience abroad gave him peculiar understanding of the needs of Chaplains, as well as genuine sympathy with them in their tasks. Consequently, his counsel was sought frequently and given gladly in the solution of numerous problems affecting the chaplaincy, both during and since the war.

"This Committee felt itself honored by his membership on it, and is bereaved by his passing. The high quality of his work and his own lovable personality have left a profound impression upon this generation.

"We desire to record the keen personal loss which we have sustained and our gratitude for his life and work, which will be treasured as a happy memory not only in America but throughout the world wherever his name is known."

Mrs. Lucy Clayton Jones, wife of Col. Samuel G. Jones, Adjutant General of the 9th Corps Area, who died at Letterman General Hospital, San Francisco, Calif., June 1, 1929, was the daughter of the late Gen. and Mrs. Powell Clayton, former Governor and United States Senator of Arkansas, and the first United States Ambassador to Mexico.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Jones is survived by two sisters, one the Baroness Moncheur, wife of the recently retired Belgium Ambassador to Great Britain and former Minister to the United States, and the other Lady Arthur Grant Duff, wife of Sir Arthur Grant Duff, recently retired from active duty as British Minister at Stockholm. Her brother, the late Maj. Powell Clayton, married Miss Nancy Taylor Langhorne, sister of Col. George T. Langhorne, U. S. Cavalry.

Col. Jones accompanied the remains to Washington, D. C., and interment was at Arlington National Cemetery, Va., Friday afternoon, June 7.

Weddings

THE marriage of Miss Marion Carmichael, daughter of Maj. Gen. Rodrick L. Carmichael, Chief of Finance, U. S. A., and Mrs. Carmichael, to Mr. Call Dickinson, son of Representative and Mrs. L. J. Dickinson, of Iowa, took place at 8 p. m., Saturday, June 8, 1929, in the Washington Heights Presbyterian Church, Washington, D. C., the Rev. John C. Palmer officiating.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her wedding gown was charming, fashioned of ivory white satin along princess lines. The straight bodice was made with a pointed yoke of seed pearls and crystals and fitted sleeves went into points at the wrists. The train, three yards in length, was cut in one with the skirt. Her veil was of eggshell tulle, pleated into a cap at the nape of the neck and held at the front by a band of rose point renaissance lace, an heirloom in her family. She carried a small shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Miss Kathleen Carmichael attended her sister as maid of honor wearing a gown of orchid chiffon and satin, fashioned with low waist line, and the full skirt had long panels in the back. She wore slippers to match her frock and carried a sheaf bouquet of pale varicolored flowers. Miss Ruth Dickinson, sister of the bridegroom, was the bridesmaid, wearing a gown of green chiffon and satin, made like that of the maid of honor. Her slippers matched her gown and she carried flowers like those of Miss Carmichael. The little flower girl was Anita Jane Stephens, niece of the bride and daughter of Lt. and Mrs. J. E. Stephens, of New York. She wore a dainty frock of yellow georgette crepe and carried a small green basket of lavender sweet peas and pink rosebuds.

Representative Dickinson father of the bridegroom, was the best man and the ushers selected included Mr. Rolin Hunter of Des Moines, Iowa; Mr. Henry S. Wheeler, of Newport, R. I.; Mr. Emmet Peterson, of Sacramento, Calif.; Lt. John E. Stephens, U. S. N.; Cadet Rodrick L. Carmichael, U. S. Military Academy, brother of the bride, and Mr. William H. Cranford, of Washington. Mrs. Carmichael, mother of the bride, wore a beige lace and brown tulle gown and Mrs. Dickinson was in blue lace.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents 2511 Cliffbourne Place, for relatives and close friends of the bride and bridegroom. Mr. Dickinson and his bride left later for a wedding trip. They will be at home after June 15 at 2800 Ontario Road.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mrs. William H. McCallum, grandmother of the bride, of Rowland, N. C., and Miss Nancy Moir, of Burlington, Iowa.

A prettily arranged wedding of much interest to the Army was that of Miss Martha Gardner and Capt. Floyd Emerson Galloway, Air Corps, U. S. A., son of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Galloway, of Kentucky, which took place Saturday afternoon, June 8, 1929, in Washington. The ceremony was performed at 4:30 o'clock in the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Gardner, widow of Col. Cornelius Gardner, U. S. A., at 2036 O Street, Chaplain Vaughan, of Ft. Myer officiating.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her mother, wore a becoming costume of heavy eggshell color satin, fashioned on princess lines and made with a court train. The long sleeves were finished at the wrists with point applique lace and her long veil of renaissance lace was edged with point applique. She carried a sheaf of calla lilies. Miss Barendina Gardner was her sister's only attendant, wearing a dainty frock of chiffon shaded from pale yellow to pink, the skirt made of flounces and having a plain bodice. Her horsehair hat was of pink trimmed with green ribbon streamers and her shoes were of pink satin. Col. Charles Burton Robbins, former Assistant Secretary of War, was best man, and the ushers were Maj. William McChord, Capt. Charles B. B. Bubb and Lt. John Upston, all of the Air Corps, U. S. A.

A reception for about 250 guests followed at 5 o'clock, during which the bride cut the wedding cake with the bridegroom's saber. Later in the afternoon Capt. and Mrs. Galloway started for a wedding trip, the bride wearing a traveling costume of beige and brown pussy willow satin with beige color blouse and a brown straw cloche. They will later be at home at Bowman Field, near Louisville, Ky., where Capt. Galloway is on duty.

Among the out-of-town guests were Col. and Mrs. Benjamin F. Ristine of Dayton, uncle and aunt of the bride, and Mrs. Edgar McM. Sergeant of Kalamazoo, Mich., sister of the bride.

The marriage of Miss Alice Verena Leonhard, daughter of Albert F. Leonhard, of Ridgewood, N. J., and Lt. Henry Ray McKenzie, U. S. A., took place Friday, June 14, at two o'clock in the Cadet Chapel at West Point, Chaplain Arthur B. Kinsolving of West Point officiating. The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was of ivory satin with a wide lace hem which formed a train in the back. The neck was diamond shaped with "V" of lace down the back. The veil was of tulle simply arranged and she carried a shower bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. E. R. Leonhard, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor and Miss Cornelia Veram FitzSimons of Rochester, N. Y., acted as bridesmaid. Little Patsy Leonhard, niece of the bride, was a flower girl. Mrs. Leonhard's gown was of purple astor chiffon and was short in front and long in back. Miss FitzSimons' dress was of practically the same pattern but was in pale green. The large horsehair hats which were turned up in front and down in back, corresponded in color to the dresses and shoes. The little flower girl's dress was of maize organdie. Lt. Karl Henry Jark, of Beatrice, Nebr., acted as best man.

A reception immediately followed the ceremony in the ballroom of the Thayer Hotel at West Point.

Announcement was made by Mrs. Martha V. Messerole, of Pasadena, Calif., May 19, at a luncheon given at the Flintridge Country Club, of the date of the marriage of her daughter, Martha, to Lt. Henry T. Brian, U. S. N. June 19, has been selected and the ceremony will take place in St. James Episcopal Church, South Pasadena, the Rev. C. Rankin Barnes officiating.

Miss Messerole is well known in the musical world and is a popular young woman of society. Lt. Brian is the son of Mrs. John Hancock Merriam, wife of Capt. Merriam of U. S. N. and

Dr. Enoch G. Brian, U. S. N., also grandson of the late Capt. Henry T. Brian of Washington, D. C. He is a graduate of the 1925 class of the U. S. Naval Academy and has recently returned from three years' service in China waters and is now attached to the U. S. S. "Colorado." Lt. and Mrs. Brian will make their home for the present with bride's mother, at 1308 Fremont Avenue, South Pasadena, Calif.

Engagements

MRS. ELIZABETH SHIPPEY, of Coronado, Calif., has announced the engagement of her daughter, Helen Shippey Grant, to Lt. Matthias B. Gardner, U. S. N.

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Miss Josephine McClellan, daughter of the late Brig. Gen. John McClellan, U. S. A., ret., and Mrs. McClellan, to Cuthbert Lee of New York City.

The engagement of Miss Betty Ripley of Seattle, Wash., and Ens. Emmett J. Sullivan, U. S. N., has been announced. Ens. Sullivan is attached to the U. S. S. Tennessee and was graduated from the United States Naval Academy in the class of 1927.

WEST POINT, N. Y.

June 15, 1929.

JUNE WEEK, which was the gayest and busiest week for the cadets, was almost as busy for the officers and their families. They had with them guests from all parts of the country who came to participate in the June Week festivities and in the many class reunions. The largest social function of the week was the reception given by the Superintendent and Mrs. William R. Smith in honor of the graduating class at which they entertained the guests of the officers and the cadets.

The West Point Players also contributed greatly to the entertainment of the week by their two splendid performances of the well-known comedy "Peg O' My Heart," by J. Hartley Manners, on the evenings of June 9 and 10. Peg O'Connell was played by Evv Craig (Mrs. Frank Carr). Other members of the cast included Mrs. W. S. Eley as Mrs. Chichester, Mrs. Herman Beukema as Ethel, Mrs. W. J. Crowe as the maid. The male parts were taken by Lt. Mason Wright as Aleric, Lt. Gerald Galloway as Jerry, Capt. Walter A. Demas as Christopher Brent, Capt. Henry Brickley as Montgomery Hawkes, and Capt. Loyd Durfee as Jarvis.

Capt. and Mrs. Ira A. Hunt entertained at dinner at the Thayer Hotel on Monday evening, taking their guests later to see the West Point Players performance of "Peg O' My Heart." Their guests included Maj. Gen. and Mrs. William R. Smith, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert M. Lyon, Lt. Col. and Mrs. Robert C. Richardson, Jr., Lt. Col. and Mrs. Otto L. Brunzell, Capt. and Mrs. Clare H. Armstrong, and Capt. and Mrs. Herbert C. Holdridge.

ANNAPOLIS, MD.

June 15, 1929

THE embarkation of the midshipmen for European waters on June 7 was the closing scene of the gayest of all weeks at the Naval Academy. By the end of the week hundreds of visitors who had attended the graduation festivities had left and Annapolis assumed its customary aspect which seemed unusually calm in comparison with the preceding week of balls, dinners and dress parades. Possibly the most picturesque and enjoyable of the events of June Week was the garden party given in honor of the graduates by the superintendent of the Naval Academy and Mrs. Samuel S. Robison. The affair was held in the beautiful grounds of the superintendent's quarters. Lanterns of many hues gave light to the spacious gardens and an orchestra played for dancing which was enjoyed on the especially built pavilion. About one thousand were present, including the graduates and their guests. Adm. and Mrs. Robison were assisted in receiving by the Commandant of Midshipmen and Mrs. Charles Phillip Snyder and Lt. Comdr. Albert H. Rooks, aide to Adm. Robison.

The Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, accompanied by the Secretary's aide, Capt. George F. Neal, of Washington, were the guests of Adm. and Mrs. Robison for the graduating exercises on June 6. They arrived in time to attend the dress parade and awarding of the various prizes and colors to the midshipmen and in the evening were guests of honor at a dinner party given by their hosts. Others present at the dinner were Capt. and Mrs. John N. Newton, Capt. and Mrs. Albert Church, Chaplain Sydney K. Evans, and Midshipman Richard C. Drum Hunt, Jr., who received with Mrs. Robison at the June Ball.

Following the graduating exercises on June 6, Adm. and Mrs. Robison entertained at a large luncheon to which one hundred and fifty guests were invited, including ranking officers from Washington and those visiting in Annapolis.

A number of reunions were held in Annapolis during June Week, and among them was the annual meeting of the Hill and Sinclair families. Maj. Gen. and Mrs. George Barnett came from their country home at Wakefield Manor, Va., to witness the graduation of their nephew, Arthur Sinclair Hill. Mr. and Mrs. C. Phillips Hill, of Pensacola, Fla., were present.

Capt. William Randall Sayles, in command of the USS Arkansas, and his bride, formerly Mrs. Flora Forrest Duval Wade, of Annapolis, were at Carvel Hall last week previous to the departure of the Arkansas on the midshipmen cruise. Capt. and Mrs. Sayles' marriage took place quietly in May, in New York City.

Comdr. and Mrs. Daniel A. McElduff, who for the last three years have occupied quarters at 43 Upshur Road, have left for the West Coast whence they will sail for duty in China. They will spend a week in California before leaving for the Orient.

Chaplain Frank H. Lash, U. S. N., who will succeed Chaplain Sydney K. Evans at the Naval Academy, has arrived in Annapolis. Chaplain Bartholomew F. Huske, who is now in California, where he is receiving his degree of Doctor of Divinity from the University of Southern California, will be Chaplain Lash's assistant. Chaplain Evans was detached on June 10 and will go to Washington, where he will be head of the Navy Corps of Chaplains.

Lt. and Mrs. Paul E. Howard, accompanied by Mrs. Howard's mother, have left Annapolis to visit relatives in the West. Mrs. Howard and her mother will go to California and will be joined there later by Lt. Howard who is visiting relatives in Minnesota. Lt. and Mrs. Howard will sail from Seattle, Wash., for duty in the Asiatic Station.

Weddings held a prominent place among the events of early June at the Naval Academy and nine among the newly graduated Ensigns were married at the Naval Academy Chapel by Chaplain Evans immediately following their graduation.

A wedding announced for June 19 is that of Miss Helen Mae Farmer, daughter of Mrs. Jessie Lloyd Farmer, to Lt. (jg) Carter Alston Printup, U. S. N., of the Naval Academy Class of 1925. The ceremony will be solemnized on the evening of the nineteenth at 6 o'clock at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. C. Alphonso Edward Bell, of Capo di Monte, Bel Air, Los Angeles.

Burrage, Mrs. W. E. Callender, Mrs. Allen M. Cook, Mrs. L. H. Harris, Mrs. Brooks Johnson, Mrs. W. H. Sergeant, Jr., Mrs. Starke Sutton, Mrs. Richard Winbourne, Miss Nan D. Kensett, Miss Caroline Waters, and Miss Carolea Harris. Mrs. Nathaniel Beaman and Mrs. H. H. Covington poured tea and those serving were: Mrs. Barton Myers, Jr., Mrs. Brooks Johnson, Miss Alice Covington, Miss Charlotte Burrage, Miss Georgianna Taliaferro, Misses Jane and Elizabeth Patrick, Maud Winbourne, Elizabeth Warren, Carolea Harris, Sarah Baker, and Clarice Cook.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. H. G. Bowerfind entertained on June 9 at their home in Brandon Place, in celebration of the thirtieth birthday anniversary of their son, Howard. The young guests numbered ten.

The wardroom officers of the USS Wright entertained on June 7 at a tea dance and buffet supper given at the Country Club in honor of Capt. and Mrs. E. D. McWhorter and Capt. and Mrs. H. B. Cecil. The affair was in the nature of a farewell party to these two very popular officers as Capt. McWhorter, commanding officer of the Wright, is leaving shortly for his new post of duty at Pensacola, and Comdr. Cecil, executive officer of the Wright, will assume his new duties in the Navy Dept. at Washington this week. Music for dancing was furnished by the Naval Training Station orchestra, and in addition to the guests of honor, the guests numbered about 75.

Capt. Francis L. Chadwick will leave about the middle of June for Owatonna, Minn., where he will attend a family reunion in celebration of the eightieth birthday anniversary of his mother. Mrs. Miles Bond Chadwick. Before returning to Norfolk, Capt. Chadwick will visit his sons, Francis L., Jr., and Hamilton Justice, in Detroit.

Capt. and Mrs. Benjamin H. Dorsey entertained on June 7 at a dinner given at their home in the Navy Yard. Covers were laid for 12 and the guests included: Dr. and Mrs. E. C. S. Taliaferro, Capt. and Mrs. H. V. McKittick, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Serpell, Comdr. and Mrs. J. F. Roidan, and Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. T. D. Warner.

Capt. and Mrs. O. C. Dowling entertained at their home on Hanover Ave., on June 5 at a bridge supper. Bridge was played at six tables.

Mrs. D. C. Laizure entertained on June 8 at her home in the Navy Yard at a luncheon. Covers were laid for 12 guests.

Lt. John C. Williams entertained on June 6 at a dinner party given on board the USS Nevada. His guests numbered ten.

Comdr. and Mrs. J. W. W. Cummings and their two sons have arrived from the Naval War College at Newport, R. I., and have taken an apartment in Malvern Hill, Portsmouth. Comdr. Cummings is attached to the Naval Operating Base.

Capt. and Mrs. Philip Taliaferro, who have been residing at Ft. Monroe, will leave next week to make their home in Atlanta, Ga., where Capt. Taliaferro has been stationed at the Georgia Institute of Technology.

Capt. and Mrs. H. L. Wyman left June 13 to attend the graduating exercises at Wellesley College, where their daughter, Miss Polly Wyman, received her degree this week.

Lt. Comdr. and Mrs. Fred Granger have taken a cottage at Ocean View for the summer months.

IN discussing problems of oil conservation, G. M. P. Murphy and Co., in a recent issue of A Fortnightly Review, comment as follows:

Sound business sense and idealism are working hand in hand on the problem of oil conservation, and signs are in evidence of an awakening public conscience in the matter. The idealist alone might have slight prospect of making progress; the human race is scarcely as yet far-sighted enough to put itself on rations now for the probable benefit of a highly motorized posterity. Reality is given to the movement by the active aid, even if from different motives, of the oil producers. They are seeking conservation and curtailment because of the expensive industrial inefficiency which experience has shown to follow unregulated producing activities.

The American oil industry is peculiarly susceptible to almost all the unfavorable causes of overproduction that a competitive system brings with it. If one owner drills in a well, adjoining owners may feel compelled to drill to avoid losing any of the oil under their properties through the neighboring well. In this way the contagion spreads, regardless of demand for the product, and may finally demoralize the industry as a whole.

Seek to Honor Pulaski

THE joint resolution which would authorize the President to request the observance of the 150th anniversary of the death of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski was passed by the Senate June 3. The bill was reported from the committee on the library by Senator Fess.

The resolution reads: "Whereas October 11, 1779, marks, in American history, the date of the heroic death of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, who died from wounds received on October 9, 1779, at the siege of Savannah, Ga.; and

"Whereas the States of Indiana, Wisconsin, Michigan, Ohio, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, New York, Minnesota, Maryland, New Jersey, Illinois, and other States of the Union have, by legislative enactment, designated October 11, 1929, to be 'General Pulaski's Memorial Day'; and

"Whereas October 11, 1929, marks the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the death of General Pulaski, and it is but fitting that such date should be observed and commemorated with suitable patriotic exercises: Therefore be it

"Resolved, etc., That the President of the United States is requested, by proclamation, (1) to invite the people of the United States to observe October 11, 1929, as the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the death of Brig. Gen. Casimir Pulaski, Revolutionary War hero, by holding such exercises and ceremonies in schools, churches, or other suitable places as may be deemed appropriate in commemoration of the death of General Pulaski, and (2) to provide for the appropriate display of the flag of the United States upon all governmental buildings in the United States on such date."

C. of Inf. at Tank School

Maj. Gen. Stephen O. Fuqua, Chief of Infantry, recently made an inspection of the Tank School, Fort George G. Meade.

Accompanied by Maj. Thompson Lawrence, of his office, Gen. Fuqua conferred with the Tank Board on all projects, studies, and tests now before the Board, and inspected the activities of the Tank School proper. He was entertained at lunch by Col. and Mrs. H. L. Cooper, Assistant Commandant of the School.

On the second day, accompanied by Maj. Henry Terrell, Jr., of this office, Gen. Fuqua visited the Light and Heavy Mechanical Schools and the Infantry Motor Transport School, observed the activities of the various organizations stationed at Fort Meade and inspected the new barracks recently constructed and now occupied by the 16th and 17th Tank Battalions and the 21st Maintenance Company. Gen. Fuqua and Maj. Terrell were guests of Col. and Mrs. J. K. Parsons for lunch.

In the afternoon, Gen. Fuqua was joined by Mrs. Fuqua and attended a tea given by Col. and Mrs. Parsons in their honor. All officers and ladies of the garrison were present to meet them.

THE IDEAL INVESTMENT

STANDARD COLLATERAL TRUSTED COMMON STOCK SHARES

Suppose you had $100,000 to invest. How would you invest it? If you followed sound investment principles your investment would be spread over a diversified group of dividend paying securities to obtain full advantage of safety, yield and growth of principal. The number of individuals having $100,000 to invest in this manner is limited.

The TRUSTEED SHARES of this corporation when purchased by you in lots as small as five shares make you an actual part owner in such an investment receiving SEMI-ANNUAL DIVIDENDS regularly while your investment grows with the growth of the 100 industries of the investment.

Let us explain in detail.

ALCATRAZ, CALIF.

June 10, 1929.

IN ALL its varied and romantic history Alcatraz, that mighty sentinel guarding the Golden Gate, never presented a more festive atmosphere than on Wednesday, May 29. To the weary commuters on the ferries to the Sausalito and Alameda shores the spectacle must have appeared even more alluring than it did to those who viewed it at close range. The entire parade ground overlooking the bay was festooned with vari-colored lights scintillating afar, while in the very center of that elevated terrace stood a huge tent capable of seating 6,000 spectators. The tent itself was a patchwork of colors, combining in one grand ensemble all the colors of Old Castile. On the inside, too, it envisioned the settings of carnival week in the days of the Don. The mighty ring alone, in the center, was the tell-tale. It was not a circus or a carnival after all. It was just the arena for the annual boxing tournament for the benefit of Army Relief.

By eight o'clock the boats had landed several loads of enthusiastic fans. They were still trekking into the tent when the preliminary events opened and the fun commenced. Bout after bout followed in rapid succession, and yet it was close to eleven o'clock before the final fistic encounter was ended.

On the whole, it was a very enjoyable evening. The spectators certainly got a very lively card. Oh, and how they did yell! Dignified bankers and plain wage-earners sat side by side and gave vent to their feelings like a gang of school-boys.

In a special box at the east side of the ring sat the Commandant of the Island, G. Maury Cralle, with Gen. Hines and Caldwell, flanked by many other high ranking officials of the Army and the municipality, who were also guests, and judging from external appearances were the most enthusiastic fans in the gathering.

Needless to remark, the preparations for these fights were very extensive. In addition to the leasing of the large circus tent referred to already, it was necessary to secure enough bleacher seats for a crowd of 6,000 fans. Arrangements, too, had to be made for the transportation of spectators from San Francisco to the island and back, by Army harbor boats and leased civilian tugs, by no means an easy task.

The entire program was carried out under the immediate supervision and direction of Col. G. Maury Cralle, and in the words of the San Francisco Chronicle, "it was a show that left a good taste with those who were present and will go far in the encouragement of better attendance in the future." If it did not net as much financially as the more sanguine of the brethren had looked for, nevertheless it was a decided success, and the great amount of favorable publicity given both before and after, by the metropolitan press was indeed most flattering to every officer who had a hand in the program.

It should not be forgotten either that a great amount of whole-hearted cooperation and assistance was rendered by all the civilian agencies applied to, and a fund of good will was established from which, as from a reservoir, Alcatraz can always draw, when it stages its future bouts.

FT. DOUGLAS, UTAH

June 10, 1929.

DURING the brief stay in Salt Lake City of Col. Paul V. McNutt, National Commander of the American Legion, Capt. and Mrs. J. W. Duckworth, entertained for him and Mrs. McNutt with a beautiful afternoon tea at their quarters.

Brig. Gen. R. H. Van Deman made an inspection of the 38th Infantry on May 10. An evening reception and dance were held in his honor. Col. and Mrs. H. C. Price entertained for him with a very lovely afternoon tea at their quarters. Purple iris and bridal wreath made a strikingly beautiful centerpiece on the tea table. The ladies who poured were Mrs. A. H. Davidson, Mrs. H. H. Towler, Mrs. F. U. McCoskrie and Mrs. P. J. Mueller.

Capt. and Mrs. F. U. McCoskrie gave a dinner party for forty guests on May 11 at their quarters. The honor guests were Brig. Gen. R. H. Van Deman, and Col. and Mrs. Price. The table was beautifully decorated with big baskets of exquisite pink snap-dragons. Following the dinner everyone attended the reception and dance at the Post Hall.

On May 15 Col. Price accompanied Gen. Van Deman on a trip to Ft. Sill, Okla., to inspect the first battalion of the 38th Infantry stationed there.

Mr. F. Trubee Davison, Assistant Secretary of War, arrived in Salt Lake City on May 20 by airplane from San Francisco for an inspection of Woodward Field. He was met at the field by Maj. P. J. Mueller, who was in command of the 38th Infantry during the absence of Col. H. C. Price, and escorted to the post where a reception was held for him and his executive aide Maj. D. C. Emmons.

On May 20, 21 and 22 two army airplanes from Crissy Field, San Francisco, engaged in maneuvers with the 38th Infantry. The planes were piloted by Lt. G. P. Saville and Lt. R. A. Gardner, with Lt. R. H. Bondreaux as observer.

Maj. and Mrs. P. J. Mueller entertained with a bridge-dinner in honor of the three visiting aviators Lts. Saville, Gardner and Bondreaux. The other guests were Misses Jane Price, Bernice Thomas, Belle MacVichie, Alice Nord, Mrs. Hutton, Mr. Howard Price and Lt. J. B. Grinstead.

Mrs. W. I. Sherwood entertained eleven ladies with an unusually beautiful bridge-luncheon. Yellow was the predominating color throughout the menu, and the flowers were the well-known yellow daisies of the Salt Lake valley.

On May 28 Capt. and Mrs. A. L. Morris gave a most enjoyable buffet-supper at their quarters for twenty-four guests. The table decorations were purple iris with bridal wreath, and lavender candles.

Maj. and Mrs. P. J. Mueller gave a dinner party at the Officers' Club for twenty-six guests. Three large centerpieces of lilacs and variegated tulips decorated the long table very effectively. After dinner, bridge was played by their guests.

Brig. Gen. J. C. Castner, accompanied by Maj. J. H. Hester, arrived for a tactical inspection of the 38th Infantry on May 30. An afternoon reception was held for them at the Officers' Club on the following Saturday. A profusion of spring flowers transformed the club rooms into a veritable garden. It is interesting that Gen. Castner is now in command of the Third Division, since he was the first colonel of the 38th Infantry, trained the regiment and took it to France. Shortly after his arrival overseas he was promoted to the grade of brigadier general, and so lost the command of the regiment.

Maj. Gen. John L. Hines arrived in Ft. Douglas on June 3, accompanied by Lt. Col. A. L. Singleton. A cabaret-dinner was given at the Post Hall in their honor. At the guest table were Gen. Hines, Col. and Mrs. H. C. Price, Lt. Col. Singleton, Mayor Bowman, of Salt Lake City, and Mrs. Bowman, Mr. Burke, of the Chamber of Commerce, and Mrs. Burke, Maj. and Mrs. H. H. Towler, Maj. and Mrs. P. J. Mueller, and Capt. and Mrs. F. U. McCoskrie. Other dinner parties of the evening were given by Col. and Mrs. C. Enos, Capt. and Mrs. G. S. Pierce, Capt. and Mrs. M. G. Browne and Capt. and Mrs. E. G. Thomas.

WOULD REPRESENT U. S.

A joint resolution introduced in the House this week would authorize the participation by the United States in the International Conference for the Revision of the Geneva Convention of July 6, 1906, for the amelioration of the condition of the wounded in the armies of the field, to be held in Geneva in July, 1929. The conference would also study the Revision of the Code for Prisoners of War adopted at the Hague in 1907.

This resolution proposes to appropriate $34,000 for this purpose, including travel and subsistence per diem, and other expenses. This amount would be made available until June 30, 1929.

SCHOOL DIRECTORY

COMMENCEMENT

With the approach of the commencement time Service parents are once more confronted with the problem of their children's education. For those who have finished high school it means the selection of a suitable preparatory or finishing school. For those planning to pursue a college course still another problem is presented; and, finally, those young men fortunate enough to have been designated for examination for entrance to West Point and Annapolis a special course of training is necessary.

Regardless of the nature of the Service parents' problem in connection with their children's education the Army and Navy Journal School Directory can furnish invaluable aid. The School Directory Editor is always anxious to assist Service parents with their problems and his services are at the disposal, gratis, of the National Defense personnel who are invited to consult him with reference to their particular needs.

For further information, rates, etc., address School Directory Editor, Army and Navy Journal, 1800 E Street Northwest, Washington, D. C.
